INGERSOLL ON PARKHURST.

A Kansas City Journal reporter got the following from Col. Ingersoll while in that city:

"Don't ask me anything about religion or politics," he said pleasantly. "I have simply been to New Mexico on legal business, and have stopped off here to lecture and to see many old friends I have here. We leave tomorrow for Chicago, and I lecture in Indianapolis Sunday night. We have greatly enjoyed our short stay here and have renewed many pleasant acquaintances."

"What do you think of Dr. Parkhurst's methods of purifying the moral atmosphere of New York?" was asked.

"Well, if you won't let me off," replied the colonel, "I suppose I must give my opinion. It is this, and you can draw your own inferences: If Christ had disguised himself and visited the house of the woman to whom he said: 'Go and sin no more'—had taken one of his disciples with him, and had then complained to the chief of police or to the high priest and had the woman sent to prison, I do not think he would have added to his reputation."

Col. Ingersoll said, in answer to the question, "What is the trend of modern thought?"

"Away from creed and dogma, away from inspired books and miracles, away from old mistakes and crimes and idiotic ideas, away from hate and hell, from Jehovah and all the savage gods. Science is the only savior and humanity the only religion."

Commenting on the action of the quadrennial Methodist conference at Omaha in deciding that "laymen" does not and never did include women, the famous orator said:

"I am glad of it. The women support the church. They fry the chickens for the preachers and bear the burdens. I think they will soon see that the church is of no use to them. A religion in which woman does not occupy the highest place is a poor affair. A man's religion is hardly worth talking about. Let us hope that the women will take their revenge."

"About politics? Oh, that makes no difference. This country is like a prosperous cigar and tobacco store. It makes but little difference what wooden Indian stands in front."

And more on the burning question as to Blaine or Harrison, Cleveland or Hill, reciprocity or tariff reform, the foreign policy of the present administration, the eloquent colonel said nothing.

Colonel Ingersoll solved the question as to whether men or women write the better fiction. This question is being discussed by the authors and artists at the Midland, and this is what he said on the subject:

"Taking only the present time into consideration, I think that Ouida is the greatest writer of fiction living—man or woman. There have been few even equal to this great writer. I think that women are as great intellectually as men. When they get away from superstition they will astound and civilize the world."

Tom Catron may or may not be a candidate for delegate to congress. On this point we are not advised, but our opinion is that he will not be. Mr. Catron is a very able man and he is perhaps tricky and resentful, but his personal integrity has never been questioned and if he should get to congress no particular harm would be done.—Albuquerque Democrat.

"Give me," said Mr. Harrison, tucking away his napkin tidily, "a little more of that nomination pudding."

Then everybody looked at Mr. Blaine, and asked what he'd take.—Chicago News.

LAS VEGAS

Hot Springs,

NEW MEXICO.

A COSY NOOK IN WINTER.

In the states we occasionally have an autumnal day when there is just a tinge of frostiness in the air and a vast sea of sunlight through which the earth exultingly plunges; not a cloud in the sky, scarcely a breath of wind stirring the dust heaps, when effort of mind and muscle has no limit.

In New Mexico—the land of all lands where "it is always afternoon," such days are the rule, not the exception; and no other nook in New Mexico has so delightful a climate at all seasons of the year as Las Vegas Hot Springs. From November to April scarcely a day passes during which the sun does not shine brilliantly and continuously. During the summer months, when lower countries are sweltering in the heat, there is the same genial warmth and glow without the enervating effect of excessive humidity. The average mid day winter temperature is from 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit. In summer the highest flight of the thermometer rarely exceeds 80 degrees at noon, and the average for that hour is only 75. The altitude (7,000 feet above the sea), the picturesque valley, the high, pine covered mountains, the even temperature, and warm, dry air, combine to make this a favorite resort for tourists and an ideal place for invalids.

Las Vegas Hot Springs is located on the southeastern slope of the Santa Fe range of the Rocky mountains, six miles from the thrifty city of Las Vegas. There are upward of forty hot and cold springs, the water from the best of them being conducted in pipes to a large and handsome bath house of modern construction. Almost all forms of chronic disease yield to the curative effects of these wonderful waters. It is not claimed nor expected that everybody will be made well. It is confidently asserted that where there is anything left to build upon good results almost always follow a thorough course of treatment at the Hot Springs, and some remarkable cures have occurred. Persons who have failed to receive relief elsewhere for rheumatism, catarrh, lung trouble and diseases of the blood are invited to try the great New Mexico sanitarium. Skilled physicians are always in attendance.

A branch line of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad connects the city with the springs. Five daily passenger trains each way render it easy of access from Las Vegas. Telegraph and telephone lines give additional communication with the outside world.

But the chief feature of the place, aside from its pre-eminence as a resort for invalids, is the MONTEZUMA HOTEL, a commodious and massive structure of stone, crowning a slight eminence near the station. It may be doubted by those who know nothing of western push and enterprise, but here, in the very heart of old Spain-in-new-America, is the finest watering place hotel west of the Alleghenies. Perhaps there are a few others that are larger—they are not many. Certainly none are more satisfying to the eye or more restful to the tired, dusty, worn-out traveler. Large, handsome rooms, a fine cuisine, a commanding location and a careful catering to the wants of all guests make the Montezuma hotel peculiarly suitable as a stopping place for transcontinental tourists via the Santa Fe route and for all classes of rest, pleasure and health seekers the country over.
