The Defender Defends the Cup Right Gallantly.

Was Gained in the Last Two.

New York, Sept. 7.—The Defender won her name in truly American fashion to-day, finishing far ahead of the English challenger, Valkyrie III, and giving every evidence of outclassing he Dunraven boat in almost any kind of weather.

There were many strange features connected with the race, not he least being the general doubt expressed during the first 15 miles of the course as to which the general doubt expressed during the first 15 miles of the course as to which was in the lead. It was nip and tuck from the first signal gun and until within a short distance of the mark, and then the Defender caught a breeze and to the delight of thousands simply sailed away from her rival. from her rival.

From that moment she went on increasing her lead to the end, winning by a surprising margin of 8 minutes and (Multnomah) won; F. E. Watkins (Multnomah) won; F. E. Watkins (Multnomah) by a surprising margin of 8 minutes and a seconds.

The British boat led out into the fog and rain toward the turning mark, nearing which the Defender passed her antagonist and turned ahead. On the run home the identity of the yachts could not be disclosed owing to the thickness of the fog, until they were close to the finish.

The manner in which the Defender outfooted the Valkyrie, and even outfooted the valkyrie and even outfoote

Never in the history of the races for the cup has a foreign boat shown to such advantage as did the Valkyrie to-day. She got over the line first and for a long time pointed higher and outfooted the American boat.

Many were the tears shed by Yanker

Many were the tears shed by Yankee sympathizers who had counted on three straight victories for the Defender, when they saw, the Britisher, even when well pitched up in the wind, and sailing probably from half a point to a point higher than the Defender, still going through the water faster ahead.

The first surprise of the day was in the position that the Defender showed.

the position that the Defender showed on crossing the line.

Very strange to say, she was a little bit to windward of the English boat, behind, it is true, by four seconds, but still to the windward. There had been so much said about the superior skippership of Captain Sycamore that it was feared by thousands of Americans who witnessed the scene, that the Defender would not be only behind at the start, but that she would be so thoroughly banketed that she would never have a blanketed that she would never have a show in the whole race. But while the Englishman did get over the line first by about half a length, the Yankee was on top of him instead of eing below or underneath his wind. Both yachts were handled in a most dmirable manner, and it cannot be said that the sails on the Briton set a whith better than those of the American boat. In fact, no flaw could be seen in any great friend of Mr. Hammond, and was bit of cloth on either boat, Miners Caught in a Death Trap Have No Means of Escape from the Flames.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 7 .- About 3 o'clock today fire broke out in a shaft of the Oscoola mine and at this time it is more than probable that 40 men and boys have been burned to death or suffocated.

The fire started in Shaft No. 2, which The fire started in Shaft No. 2, which is used to carry the miners to the surface from the mine, and when the fire broke out, all of the men and boys employed in the mine, about 200 in number, made a rush for the shaft in the hope of being taken to the surface.

The fire was too rapid for them, however, and the chance of escaping by the shaft was entirely cut off by the flames, and smoke.

A majority of the miners made a break for the cross cut and in this way managed to reach another shall from which they were taken to the top. Forty were missing when the roll was called. Within a short time after they had within a short time after they had Within a short time after they had reached the surface smoke began issuing from all the shufts and the escape of the men was entirely cut off.

Fortunately the mine is not as heavily timbered as some of the mines in this locality and it will not take a great while to burn out. As the situation now stands there is not the slightest thing that can be done for the men and no effort is being made to extinguish the fire.

There is nothing known of how the fire originated.
