YOUNG'S COUGH SYRUP
 Davenport, Mich. I was attacked with a severe cold and throat-ache, with fever and sore throat, and was unable to get any relief. I had an appointment to be seen by a doctor, but my business prevented me from going. I had heard of Young's Cough Syrup, and I bought a bottle. I used it as directed, and in a few days I was completely cured. I am now well and strong, and I am glad to say that I am a convert to Young's Cough Syrup. I will recommend it to all my friends who are afflicted with any of the above complaints.

For 30 years ex-governor Curtin's right eye has been sightless, but a surgical operation has now restored its vision.
 We feared it all the time: The Ohio Wool Growers' association should have known better than to have passed those resolutions demanding a restoration of the tariff of 1867. Compassion for the more or less numerous readers of the Charlotte Leader should have caused them to be more considerate. And then to think of the wear and tear of conscience, and draft upon the imaginative resources of the tariff editor of that sheet their indiscretion has entailed! Besides, what do the Ohio wool growers know about sheep husbandry anyway?
 One of our State papers, which one we have forgotten, says: "Ex-President R. B. Hayes was last week installed Noble Grand of the Odd Fellows lodge at his home in Fremont Ohio, in the presence of a large concourse of members of the order. John Shelt of this village was present years ago when he was made an Odd Fellow. The I. O. O. F. have had and now have a large number of enthusiastic members in the list of prominent men. Schuyler Colfax was the author of the "Rebekah" degree for ladies, and his untimely death alone prevented him from being elected Grand Sire of the world. Garfield had kept membership in the order for years previous to his death."

Special Notice.
 Greenville, Mich., Oct. 27, 1886. Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.
 Dear Sir—In reply to your letter, I am glad to grant your request. In nature my disease was a severe case of inflammatory rheumatism. It had been running five years and effected me in all parts of my body from my head to my feet. I was at times so crippled in my hands and limbs as to be unable to help myself. I have used your medicine about six weeks; in all about three bottles. I am now able to do my work and in better spirits, no pains, and continually improving. My age is 63, and my condition a year ago and now, speaks very highly of what your medicine has done for me.
 I am happy to recommend its true, true merits. It is the best remedy we have ever used. Respectfully,
 MRS. A. W. CALDWELL.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.
 When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia, or sciatica, and relief comes, it seems as if a new lease of life had been granted. Such have been the feelings of thousands who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have used Athlophoros and found to their great joy that this medicine really did cure these diseases.
 August 10th, 1886.
 Louis Schindler, harness maker at Watertown, Wis., writes our correspondent, "While I cannot see Athlophoros has cured my rheumatism, it has been a great relief to me, and relieved me very much. I had been suffering with the rheumatism for the past six or seven years, and it was so bad that I could not do any work. I first used Athlophoros about three months ago and experienced very quick relief. I used in all about six bottles. Where did you first learn of this medicine was asked? "It was recommended to me through Mr. Edwards' use a farmer living about ten miles from here; he was much worse than me. I used only three bottles and was completely cured. I consider it the best medicine I ever used and expect to use more of it."
 Sturgis, Mich.

Lower Cost of Production.
 The Pioneer Press is pleased to find its plea for better and more economical methods of farming, repeated and enforced by those most familiar with the condition of the agricultural interest. The following statement is from 'The Farmer':
 Not all farmers go into bankruptcy at wheat raising even at present prices, and some actually make money with wheat at 55 cents a bushel. A "bull" on the Chicago board of trade may be well posted and speak within bounds of his own experience, when he states that wheat cannot be produced for 40 cents per bushel in Dakota. How ever a representative of the Farmer, a few days ago, visited a large model Dakota farm, the Grand Bros.' farm, at Mayville, Trail county, where far better results are obtained. W. W. Warren, Esq., general manager, courteously exhibited some figures, which, without giving in detail, we may say amount to this: that a crop of something over 150,000 bushels of wheat, averaging nearly twenty-five bushels per acre, costs, from time of seeding until stored in elevators (including interest on capital, wear on machinery, wages, incidentals, etc.) a little less than 24 cents per bushel. While the soil and location of this farm is excellent, we know of no special superiority of quality above good, average Red River valley soil. The results are the legitimate reward of business methods and thorough system, from breaking to marketing.

The low price of wheat is, of course, an unqualified misfortune. But, the fact existing through circumstances beyond anybody's control, the practical question is, how to make the best of it. If the farmer loses at one end of the business, he must try to gain at the other. If wheat has fallen in the world's markets, he must make good the deficit by decreasing the cost of production. The thing can be done by increasing the yield per acre. In estimating the cost of production, the cost of labor in plowing, seeding, harvesting, threshing and marketing, per acre, are added together. The total is divided by the average yield per acre, giving the average cost of production per bushel. Now, it is obvious, that if the expenditure on an acre is divided by thirteen, the average number of bushels raised to the acre, the resulting cost of production will be nearly twice as great as if we were to divide by twenty-five; the number of bushels per acre which the rich soil of the Northwest will easily yield under thorough cultivation. We desire to make this argument fair, as earnest. The cost of production given in the case cited by 'The Farmer'—less these 24 cents per bushel—is below the average figure. It holds good for large farming, where the product is 150,000 bushels, and where the economies of conducting any business on a large scale and according to the wholesale plan, can be brought into play. But the saving is there, all the same.

A close computation made some time ago, shows that the cost of wheat production, by the old, wasteful system, is, to the large farmer, from 40 to 50, and to the small farmer from 50 to 60 cents per bushel. This is on the basis of an average yield of not more than 15 bushels per acre. Now, what do we find? The large farmer, by adopting the careful methods in use in older and more economical communities, by thorough cultivation and summer fallowing, can raise his average crop to 25 bushels per acre. The cost of raising the greater amount being about the same as that of the less, it follows that, for him, the cost of production is reduced nearly one-half. That margin is clear profit, twice as great as if we were to use the same thing. The small farmer can do the same thing. By better cultivation, he can, at little, if any greater expense, secure the same yield of 24 bushels per acre. That would lower the cost of production to him from between 50 and 60, to between 30 and 40 cents per bushel. There would be a very comfortable profit in that, even with wheat at lower prices than it has reached or is likely to reach. We desire for the farmer of the Northwest every advantage possible. We hope that he may have lower taxes, and railroad freight rates as reasonable as are anywhere known. But, with all these he must still work out his own salvation. He must cease to use his land as he uses expensive farm machinery, which usually becomes worthless after a few years, by reason of lack of ordinary care. He must appropriate the millions that are offered him in profit, by reducing the cost of cultivation, merely as a premium upon careful, intelligent, economical methods of tillage.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

It will produce as much heat from a ton of coal that costs only $2.00 as can be obtained from a ton of the best furnace oil in other furnaces. It will heat six rooms for $20.00 per year; ten rooms for $30.00 and 15 rooms for $40.00.
 By using it, all the rooms in your house may be heated at the cost of running one base burner. Ever house with more than two rooms to be heated should have one.
 We also manufacture ventilating stoves for heating school rooms, stores, etc., that burn soft coal from a magazine. The same base burning stoves. School boards should investigate before buying as our heaters ventilate the room perfectly.
 Correspondence solicited. Give general description of building and we will make a logic give estimates on furnace at a cost of heating. Agents wanted.
