

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY

BANDITS GET AWAY WITH $50,000 IN GOLD COIN.

Railway and Express Companies Offer $10,000 Reward for the Capture of the Robbers and Recovery of the "Swag"—The Crime Well-Planned and Carried Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—The bandits who held up a Southern Pacific overland train a few miles west of Sacramento, late Thursday night, and looted the Wells-Fargo company express car, secured over $50,000. They seem to have eluded the officers and escaped with their plunder, which was nearly all in gold, and consequently a heavy burden. Beyond the mere supposition that the bandits are railway men who have been in the employ of the Southern Pacific—and the supposition is based only on their apparent familiarity with railway methods and their ability to successfully handle a locomotive—the pursuing officials have very little to work upon. The astounding success of the hold-up was not known until this writing. Earlier reports of the robbery gave the amount of money taken at $1,500.

When inquiries were made at the general offices of the Wells Fargo company in this city, Manager Cooper declined to state how much plunder the robbers secured, declaring that it was simply a matter between the express company and the consignees of the treasure. He refused positively to give any information to the point. The truth came out, however, when the Southern Pacific issued a circular offering a reward of $10,000 for the arrest of the two robbers and the recovery of the plunder. In this circular it is stated the bandits plundered the express car of over $50,000 in gold. The circular announces that the Southern Pacific company and the Wells Fargo company will pay $2,500 for the capture of each robber and $5,000 for the recovery of the money or a proportionate amount for any part of the whole.

Details of the Robbery.

Details of this robbery show it to have been well planned by men who knew just what they were about and who were determined that a little thing like dilling a man in cold blood should not interfere with their scheme. As soon as the train stopped the robbers covered the engineer and fireman with guns and compelled them to accompany them to the express car. Messenger Jack Paige shot twice at the bandits and came near losing his life. The engineer and fireman called to Paige to open the door, as the train robbers were going to shoot them if he did not and were prepared to blow up the car with dynamite. He complied with their request and the robbers looted the car of gold, which they loaded on the locomotive and steamed away in the direction of Sacramento, starting the engine back "wild" when they had done with it.

The robbers waylaid the track walker on his tri-cycle about 9 o'clock, tied him hand and foot, stole $3.50 and left him helpless at the side of the track. The track walker was just pulling out of Sheep camp and the overland was already in sight. With the track walker's lanterns the robbers signaled No. 3 to stop. Scott slowed up, but did not come to a full stop until the explosion of dynamite bombs under the engine warned him that it was useless to proceed further. By this time the two robbers were on the engine. They sprang on from opposite sides of the track, and began shooting at once. The passengers and train hands say quite a number of shots were fired before anybody knew what it was all about.

Was a Case of Saving Life.

The robbers forced the fireman to un couple the express car from the train and then ran that much of the train about five miles before they stopped and went on with the robbery. The rest of the train remained at Sheep camp in imminent peril of being telescoped by the Oregon train in the rear. When the captured cars were halted Engineer Scott and the fireman were marched back to the express car, where the robbers made a demand on Messenger Paige to open his door. He refused.

"We'll shoot the engineer and fireman if you don't open the door," said one of the robbers, the tallest of the two, while the other masked man held two dynamite bombs up to view in the clear moonlight and threatened to blow the express car to pieces unless it was opened at once.

Still Paige hesitated and some shots were fired through the glass door at him, one of which grazed his temple and filled it with broken bits of glass. Then the engineer called out to Paige to open the door. "We're covered with guns and they will kill us if you don't open," said Scott. Still Paige resisted and began to fire through the door, but his aim was wild, and again Scott, in fear of his life, called on the messenger to open, saying that the robbers would surely blow him up unless he gave up. The messenger finally opened the door. One robber then covered the messenger and the engineer and fireman with his rifle while the other searched for coin.

Finally Opened the Door.

It was soon found. "I was about out of ammunition," said Messenger Paige, "and Scott was so badly frightened that I opened the door to save his life. I am sure they would have killed him if I had held back a moment longer. The engineer and fireman were ordered to jump into the car. The robbers followed them. Train No. 10 was close behind and the bandits evidently knew that their time was precious. The engineer and fireman were made to carry the booty to the engine and deposit where directed.

The robbers mounted the engine and rode off, leaving the engineer and fireman behind. They went down the road toward Sacramento and then they reversed the lever and sent the engine back to the stalled train. Low steam was all that prevented a smash-up as the result of this part of the game. Train No. 10, the Oregon express, came along and pushed the three detached sections of train No. 3 into Sacramento, where they arrived at 12:30 in the morning.

The detectives are as yet without a clue to the identity of the robbers, and it is not even known in what direction the band has fled. Thursday two strangers registered at the Western hotel and were given a room in which they left overcoats and overalls. They did not sleep in the room, but next morning returned and claimed their property. They are said to answer the description of the robbers.

What Is Populism? From the Topeka New Era (Populist paper) of July 21, 1894, under above title:

Since the inauguration of Governor Lowelling down to the 3d of July last he has been busy in carrying out or trying to carry out the contracts made with the Democracy at Wichita and since.

These hellish schemes now settled, by agreement the campaign was ready to commence.

Was there ever such political treachery on record?

Following this, the county convention of Shawnee county was made up, in part, with delegates elected under a forged call of the city primaries, and largely by the manipulation of the police department acting under orders from their superiors and the state committee.

They know that Governor Lowelling, the state officers and Chairman Breidenbach encourage them in their hellish work. It is the old political method of whipping in carried to the extreme.

But the Democratic convention turned a deaf ear to their sycophantic pleadings and refused to endorse a single nominee of the so called Populist convention. Democracy said: "We have enough of your shams and of your frauds. Henceforth we will go it alone," and proceeded to nominate a straight Democratic state ticket.

If the board of Atehison city had done their duty as officials and given the city good government, then why were they removed?

Because they antagonized the interest of the saloons and gambling dens by closing them up at 10 o'clock at night and on Sundays, and there is no escaping this charge.

Kansas Populism stands for unrestricted operation of saloons, and Governor Lowelling so declares it.

Kansas Populism stands for gambling dens and policy shops, and Governor Lowelling so declares it.

Kansas Populism stands for more bawdy houses and more prostitution, and Governor Lowelling so declares it.

Kansas Populism stands for "moral, financial and material ruin," and Governor Lowelling so declares it.

It must be humiliating to a true Populist to know that the political party with which he is affiliated, and which he has been led to believe will soon usher in the millennium for labor, has got down so low in the slums of vice, fraud and corruption, has professed, pretended and lied to such an extent, that it is recognized among thinking and observing men as the chief source from which the vicious and criminal classes derive their power to prey upon society.

Democrats Cannot Run the Government Successfully.

The receipts of the government for the fiscal year 1894 were nearly $89,000,000 less than the receipts of the government for the fiscal year 1893. The expenditures of the government for the year 1894 were nearly $17,000,000 less than in 1893, while the payments for pensions for 1894 were $18,150,000 less than for the fiscal year 1893.

His Opinion.

"You have been very fortunate in your opportunities for travel, Mr. Dulby," remarked the young woman. "Yes," was the reply. "I have managed to get about a good deal." "What do you think of Paris?" "Paris," he said enthusiastically, "is about the best fire chief this town ever had, in my estimation." And she is resolved to say Parce hereafter.—Detroit Tribune.

He was in love—profoundly so. It pierced him through and through, And he was pleased to hear her say That she was that way too. He popped the question to her straight. She backed and filled and ran And wrote to say she was in love, But with another man.—Detroit Free Press.
