A WORTHY PROJECT.

Just at this time Condon is one of the most promising towns in the Inland Empire and while its commercial and business future seems to be assured there are many things which the town needs to bring it into the front rank of the most progressive towns and small cities of the Pacific Northwest. One of these things—and the one the GLOBE desires to direct particular attention to at this time—is a modern hospital equipped with every convenience and safeguard for the successful practice of modern surgery. Under present conditions every citizen of the town or surrounding country who is so unfortunate as to become a victim of some malady which requires a delicate surgical operation must be subjected to the hardship of a trip of almost 200 miles to Portland before the operation can be attempted, not because of the lack of skilled surgeons, but because the proper facilities for performing the operation under the right sanitary conditions are not to be had at home. This situation not only entails a heavy expense on the patient but it reduces the chances for a successful operation and for the ultimate recovery of the subject.

The GLOBE is reliably informed that a movement is about to be started here having for its object the establishment of such an institution in Condon and it hopes to see every business man and every citizen of the entire community lend the project their heartiest material assistance and moral support. In launching a proposition of this nature it is of the highest importance that the people in charge should be thoroughly familiar with the work undertaken and that they should be in a position to not only organize and equip but to carry on the work successfully and permanently.

Rev. Father Kelly, pastor of the Catholic churches of this district, has interested himself in this project for the past year or more and we understand that the outlook at this time is very favorable for a hospital. Father Kelly has been in correspondence with different orders of his church, the sisters of which make a specialty of hospital work and while the demand for competent nurses and hospital workers in these orders is always greater than the supply it is hoped that arrangements can be perfected at an early date which will insure a first-class hospital for Condon. In this connection it may not be amiss to say that it is wrong to assume that a hospital organized and conducted by Catholic sisters is a sectarian institution. Religious belief cuts no figure in the treatment of disease or in the care and attention given patients. Public patronage, in this as in any other undertaking will insure success and successful results will alone bring increased patronage. The medical staff at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland are mostly non-Catholic and many of the nurses in training there are likewise not members of that church. Skill, not religious belief is the requisite.

The success of the new hospital at Heppner, which was organized a year ago under the same auspices which are proposed for Condon is earnest of what can be accomplished by such an institution in a country town. Since its opening last January one physician alone has successfully operated on 14 cases of appendicitis and other serious ailments and the nurses in charge, who were trained at St. Vincent's in Portland, state that patients generally seem to recover much more speedily than they do in the large city hospitals, the reason given being that the climatic conditions are much more favorable than in the lower and denser altitude. Such an excellent record pleased the people of that town and they are now contributing generously for a larger and more modern hospital building which is soon to be erected. From Heppner newspapers and other reliable sources we learn that the lives of at least several patients have been saved in that town by having a hospital where grave cases could be successfully treated without the delay consequent to a long trip to a distant city.

Condon needs this institution and we understand that the people of the town and surrounding country will soon be called upon to contribute for the erection of a suitable building. This we believe they will do and do liberally. Such an institution will benefit the town and community in the enhancement of land values and other ways; as a business proposition it will be a winner; as a convenience to the sick it will be a godsend and as a step forward towards a proper place for Condon in the ranks of really progressive cities it will be second to none. Let every citizen join forces with the others and pull for a hospital while the opportunity is offered.

About Rheumatism.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by Condon Drug Co.

Cheated Death.

Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine, E. H. Wolfe, of Bear Grove, Iowa, cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had Kidney Trouble, which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand, since, as I find they have no equal." All druggists, guarantee them at 50c.
