Business Notice.

Our special offer to former subscribers to the Lawrenceburg Times, will expire before another issue of this paper. A large number of these subscribers have expressed their desire to take advantage of this offer, but are unwilling to pay their money in until all dispute as to the ownership of the Times is settled. They argue very plausibly, that while our right to collect on these accounts and to receipt therefor seems to be perfectly good, yet with another paper claiming to have "acquired the Times" and announcing that it will continue publication under a slightly changed name, they say one never knows how a lawsuit will turn out, and they do not want to become involved in other folks' quarrels. We cannot really blame them, although the situation works a serious hardship on us, depriving us, as it does, of the income we would otherwise have had from our purchase. While we have entire confidence in our being able to establish our absolute ownership of the Times, we have so far been unable to get Messrs. Schade to concede this.

In view of this unfortunate situation, therefore, and at the suggestion of a number of Times subscribers, we will agree to hold the benefit of this special offer for all who write us that they wish to take advantage of it and will do so when the dispute over the ownership is settled. Please let us hear from you promptly.

THE WAY FOR REAL HARMONY.

The plan adopted by the Democratic editors for party peace, which we give in another column, paves the way for real harmony, and on national affairs actually accomplishes real harmony. This paper, disgusted with the insincerity and maneuvering for advantage of both committees for the past several months, has taken no stock in their plans. But the plan now proposed by editors and leaders of both factions has our hearty and undivided support. The Independent as a rule favor it; such regular leaders as Patterson, Estill, Peay, Savage, and the Chattanooga Times, the Commercial Appeal, are for it. Only the Nashville Democrat, and the little Vertrees coterie, who, Patterson says, "represent nothing but their own selfishness, vanity and obstinacy," are standing out against it. Every Lawrence County Democrat, who wants Democracy reinstated, should go into this move for real harmony. Let our chairman, Hon. John M. Forsythe, issue a call now for a meeting on or before May 6, so that this opportunity may not be lost.

Give us an order for job work

Democracy does not seem to be coming in tall timber these days. Only top waters are offering for the principal places. Strong men may present their claims later.—Summertown Press.

When we take a look at the bunch of aspirants and see that every democratic candidate is a staunch Regular, we are inclined to believe the Press is right about it. It sounds to us like gospel truth, but it's pretty hard on Col. Bond's political bedfellows, ain't it?

The perpetrators of the bloody murder of the court officials at Hillsville, Va., (one of the century's barbaric horrors) lived in a community where the sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of the illicit liquor traffic, in which they were engaged. They could appeal to their sacred rights of local self government with as much oratorical unctiousness, as any liquor serving, law defying Tennessee politician is doing. If the doctrine of Tennessee Regulatorcy be sound then the Allen gang were simply fighting for their most sacred rights as freemen, and performed a holy duty in shooting down the fanatic judge, jury, sheriff and attorney who were seeking to rob them of their blood bought privilege.

It seems that one Faulkner, quondam candidate for governor of Tennessee from the Lebanon beat, has left the democratic organization and joined the Hooper aid society. If reported correctly he is working in the interest of the lawless element to bring about a mass meeting in contravention of the primary and conventions ordered by the constituted authorities of the democratic party. What were his chances before he took this erratic course we do not know. But it is known of all men that they are nil now.—Summertown Press.

We are suspicious that our friend, Col. Bond, will hardly follow his own logic, and put out of the party the Commercial Appeal, his erstwhile political prophet, priest and king, M. R. Patterson, Judge Floyd Estill, the obstreperous nine of the Vertrees Committee and the host of other regulars who have kicked out of the traces and are calling for a mass meeting on Friday of this week just as Gen Faulkner is doing. Ex-Gov. Patterson with characteristic phrase, calls the Vertrees coterie "A few who represent nothing but their own vanity, selfishness and obstinacy," and declares that he will attend the meeting and take part in the Faulkner movement. Does not the Press join itself with the "few, who represent nothing but their own selfishness, vanity and obstinacy."

In another column of this issue will be seen the exact language of Mr. Hooper on law enforcement during his campaign for governor. He had hardly taken his seat when it became apparent that he did not intend to do anything towards enforcing the temperance laws. Either he was ignorant of the powers of the governor then or he has shown himself to be a sham and a fraud. The days of his public life are numbered and when this term expires the places that know him now will know him no more forever. He fooled the people once, he can not fool them twice.—Summertown Press.

Does the Press wish to commit itself in the above to the doctrine that no man should be permitted to remain in public station, who refuses or neglects to enforce the laws with all the powers he may possess? If it takes that stand, it may rest assured of the hearty sympathy and support of every prohibitionist in Tennessee, regardless of party preference or alignment. We are ready to go with it into the holy war to put out of office every man who does not use his best efforts to enforce every law, and put in their place those who will. How about it, Colonel? Will you join us on this platform? But Col. Bond's words constitute a terrific arraignment of his own patron saint, Mr. Patterson. He says the people want the laws enforced, and elected Hooper because he promised to enforce them. Then by the same reasoning they forced Patterson from public life because he encouraged law violation, and will not withhold their condemnation of any man or newspaper that is not known as an advocate and champion of law as it stands on the books. If this be true, what is to become of the brethren of the Vertrees-Hooper-Hooper-Taylor (Tom and Bob) persuasion?

Saloons and all that they stand for, the saloon keepers who keep the traffic going and the city officials who permit the saloon to run in violation of the law were severely arraigned by the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf, D.D., expert on evangelism of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, at a monster meeting at Goodwyn institute building yesterday. He said, "Memphis is afflicted with three sins, licentiousness, anarchy and booze. The liquor business—no, the liquor traffic, for it is not a business, it is a crime—with the saloon, open or closed, is the most corrupt, the most damnable institution that ever wriggled its way out of the bottomless pit of hell."—News Item.

This is but a characteristic expression of the attitude of Christian organizations everywhere on this vital question of the times. All evangelical churches in the world stand openly against the saloon and all its brood of associated evil. They have not hesitated to declare this attitude in language no less severe than used by the great preacher quoted above. It is unfortunately true that there are still men of Christian life and conduct, in other things, who still by voice and vote give aid and succor to liquor and lawlessness, but deep down in their own heart, if the old time spark of love of God and their fellowman still lives, they must feel that they are running with the wrong crowd. It is our prayer that such good men may speedily awake to a realization of the consequences of their associations, and like brave, honorable Christian men come out from among the hosts of evil. Surely some day the scales will fall from their eyes.

Germany is a great nation. Its people in both war and peace have shown a wonderful capacity for achievement. Her philosophers lead the world's best thought, and in scientific research and invention the nation is not without renown. But the statistics tell another story of shameful distinction as to the moral conditions existing there. Late official figures show that the nation leads in the consumption of alcoholic liquors, and also reveal the astounding fact that one child in every ten born in that great country is without legal parentage. When we look around in our own country and see that both these conditions usually exist and flourish together, the fact is an emphatic object lesson to the sociologist, teaching that little can be done to eradicate the social evil, that does not first take into consideration the abolition of the liquor evil.

On April 1, at his handsome old antebellum home, Glen Lily, in the house where he was born, in Kentucky, Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner will celebrate his 89th birthday. He is the only living officer of his rank, in either army of the great Civil War. The thousands of heroic soldiers, who followed the fortunes of "the star-cradled nation that fell," send greetings and good wishes to the grizzled old veteran. His military record is probably without parallel at this time, he having served in the Mexican war, the Indian frontier wars and in the Civil War.

The health of this community is good at present with the exception of Jake LaCroix, Jr. who at present has pneumonia.

A great deal of gardening has been done this week in this neighborhood but the rain has stopped us. We fear the fruit will be injured if we have another frost like the one we had last Sunday night.

Quite a crowd of young people attended the singing last Sunday afternoon, at the residence of M. W. Dinkle, and all report a pleasant time; also the singing given Sunday night by Miss Jessie Musgrove was enjoyed by a large crowd.

The ladies of this neighborhood have been quite active for the past several days running their old hens since the price for hens has advanced to 12c per pound. This should encourage all farmers' wives and daughters to devote more time to poultry raising. Mrs. Nipher, Grace Beasley, Myrtle Newman, Mrs. Irwin and two children, H. H. Mabry, James and Morgan Plus, Mrs. White and son, Willie, W. P. Oliver, A. J. Augustine, L. D. McDonald, Mrs. Newman and daughter, Eva, and A. R. Day were all visitors at the Musgrove home recently.

H. H. Mabry has completed a new plow stock and states he is ready for farming in full blast as soon as the weather permits.

We are expecting several good farmers to settle among us soon. They are to come from the north where they are tired of the long cold winters. We have room for hundreds of them and bid them a hearty welcome.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

The wedding bells are going to ring quite loud in Loretto as soon as Lent is over.

Loretto is contemplating the organization of a ball team, but who are they going to play with?

HAMP HARDISON IS SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Shotgun and Pistol Both Used in Attempt to Assassinate.

What was apparently an attempt to assassinate Hamp Hardison at his home near Leftwich Bridge was made by unknown parties at about 7 o'clock Tuesday night. There were two in the party and one used a shotgun while the other used a pistol. There were several shots fired, but only the shots from the gun took effect, one in the face, one in the shoulder and one in the hip. Mr. Hardison stated that he and his wife were out in the yard looking after some soap she had been making and that after she had gone into the house he heard voices and the shooting immediately followed. He recognized the voices to be those of two boys of the neighborhood.

No arrests have yet been made, but the officers are out looking for the boys. There are many rumors afloat as to the cause of the shooting but nothing definite has been brought out. Hardison is not dangerously wounded and will soon be out again.
