HUGHES' PUBLIC LIBRARY.

J. H. BLACKLOCK, President of Committee.
W. HASTINGS HUGHES, Vice-President.
EDWARD BERTZ, Secretary and Librarian.
C. H. WILSON, Treasurer.

Donations in aid of the above are respectfully solicited by the Committee, a debt of some magnitude having been already made on account of running expenses.

About five thousand volumes, the gifts of Boston, New York and Philadelphia publishers, are now in place on the shelves of the Temporary Library on Central Avenue, and are open to inspection by visitors on application to the Librarian. About two thousand more are expected from Chicago and other sources, on receipt of which the catalogue will be completed and working arrangements made for the distribution of books to residents.

The Library building, on Central Avenue, is rapidly approaching completion, and will shortly be ready for opening.

Evidently no long time can elapse before the benefit to Rugby of this generous tribute of the American literary world to Thomas Hughes begins to be felt. But in the meantime the maintenance of the institution is a serious tax upon the limited means of the present population of the town.

Mr. Abner L. Ross has kindly consented to receive subscriptions from visitors to the Tabard Hotel. Payments can also be made to the Hughes' Public Library at the Lafayette Bank of Cincinnati, and to Mr. N. H. Tucker, at the Rugby Commissary.

We are informed that Mr. Henry Kimber, of London, the solicitor to the Board of Aid, may be expected in Rugby some time in the fall. Mr. Kimber has never yet visited the colony, where he has now, being one of the chief mortgagees, so large an interest in its welfare and development. We, in Rugby, shall be most pleased to welcome him, and to know that he will see us as we are, and become acquainted with the situation and appearance of the place and district, and thus be able to judge with more certainty of the means required for its development.

We must not build our hopes too high from the fact of the Board surveying a line of road for a railway between the Clear Fork, Rugby, and Sedgemoor, because in the matter of railroad construction there is always a prolific number of pros and cons, but we may rest assured that Mr. Walton will "do his level best" on behalf of the interests of Rugby, and if he can show a reasonable and good line of run, we may know the Board will liberally endeavor to meet the parties concerned in the construction of the Fentress County railroad, and conjointly with them place Rugby in communication with the great artery of the Cincinnati Southern Railway.

Geographically, Rugby is so situated as to represent the entrance and gateway to the Cumberland Plateau. It is in a keystone position. To leave Rugby out of railway calculations where they are concerned any where west of it, would show but little foresight, or practical and business ability. Neither party can afford to do so. It is nearly as much to the interests of those concerned with the Fentress County rail, and the county's development, that the line should run through Rugby, as it is in the interests of the Board it should run through the heart of their Morgan County lands. The two counties will develop together, and in matters of railway accommodation will find their interests best served in concerted action.

A gentleman wrote a note to Admiral Seymour just after the bombardment, stating that a shell belonging to the Inflexible was in the drawing-room of his house, and requesting its removal. The captain of the Inflexible found that the shell had not exploded and he instructed half a dozen seamen to remove it. The seamen placed the shell in a feather bed rolled it down stairs, and conveyed it back to the ship.
