SAM HUGHES

A NEW INSTRUMENT

An attachment for hoe drills as illustrated here has two very valuable and important features which every progressive farmer will appreciate. They are made to fit any hoe, are easily adjusted and answer the double purpose of regulating the depth of sowing and at the same time protect the soil firmly around the grain thus insuring immediate germination. Splendid results are obtained from their use. Manufactured by

In commenting on the nomination of Woodrow Wilson the Salem Statesman says:

In real progressive principles, that make for the development and symmetrical growth of his country, and for its higher place among world powers and for the onward march of mankind as a whole, William Howard Taft outclasses Woodrow Wilson. Mr. Taft is for international peace, and has a definite program. He is for the taking of the tariff question out of the muddy slough of party politics, and placing it on a business basis—for a tariff commission to study every phase of the matter, all the time and for amending a schedule at a time, as needed. Against the periodical disturbing of business by appeals to prejudices and sections.

In all the broad field of true and constructive statesmanship, Mr. Taft is far superior in ability, equipment and training to Wilson. He makes and will make for this country a better chief executive than Wilson.

If the people of the United States can be induced to lay aside prejudices for reason, Mr. Taft will be reelected. If this cannot be accomplished Mr. Wilson's chances for election in November are good.

Washing on politicians are up in the air, rather badly, as to the possible effect of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for President by the democrats. Being a progressive, his victory is bound to hurt the chances of Theodore Roosevelt, who declares that he is going to run as a progressive Republican. This condition is bound to react in the case of candidates for state office, many of whom have been holdout off in making their announcement. As it looks now, there will be three tickets in the field locally: Republican, Democrat and Progressive. The ultimate result is one that is giving rise to considerable speculation. Washington Democrats have declared their intention of lining up back of Wilson and Marshall, although they voted for Champ Clark solidly, until his defeat was accomplished.

Heppner's Fourth was quiet and sane. Quite a contrast to former years when the people of the town were in fear of fire or other disaster from the excessive use of explosives and fireworks.

Different men have various ways of accomplishing results and a method that would appeal to one man would be rejected by another. We have in mind the crusade under way headed by Governor West—a crusade against vice, disorderly saloons and road houses in which the militia of the state has been called into requisition. It looks like taking an axe to kill a fly. Not because we consider the evils mentioned as small and insignificant as the fly, but we believe the Governor is on the wrong trail. Every county in the state has its peace officers; every district its prosecuting attorneys, sworn and paid to prosecute violations of the laws. If the Governor has proof positive that these officers are drawing their salaries and at the same time shielding vice and refusing to prosecute criminals and lawbreakers, then it would seem to be the duty of the Governor to remove them from office or prosecute and send them to the penitentiary for neglect of duty or violation of their oath of office. A removal or two with a few prosecutions would doubtless have the desired effect.—Oregon Messenger.

W. W. Smead and wife departed for Portland on Tuesday morning to spend the balance of the week in the city. Wallace took down with him some very excellent samples of wheat and other grains to place on exhibition with the various products from other portions of the state at the Chamber of Commerce.

The Choice of a Husband.

Five Hundred More Sheep Mysteriously Poisoned.

The sheep poisoning scoundrel, who has been operating his fiendish pastime in this vicinity recently, got in an especially telling stroke day before yesterday, when as the result of poisoning the sheep trails at the head of Elk creek, eight or ten miles from this city, 500 head of a band of 3000 owned by R. B. Stanfield, the well known Stanfield, Oregon, sheep man, were poisoned, the greater number dying.

The band was in charge of one of Stanfield's men, who with a number of herders was bringing them from Grant county points to this city for shipment. No ill effects were noticed until the head of Elk creek was reached, when a number of the sheep began to act as if they had gone mad. They would suddenly start and run as fast as they could for some distance, then would fall down and soon die. What the nature of the poison is has not yet been discovered, but it did the work thoroughly and well. The remainder of the band was driven on to this city and seemed to be all right when shipped, so it is evident that they did not get any of the poison, as it took quick effect on the ones that died.

The sheep poisoner, who ever he is, is certainly meeting with much success in his nefarious practice, and what should be done to him in case he is caught is not on the statute books of the state. The Oregon Wool Growers' Association, through Secretary Hoke, and the state through the governor, have each offered $1000 reward for the apprehension and conviction of the guilty party or parties. Sheep men in Baker and Union counties the past few weeks have suffered thousands of dollars loss through the sheep poisoner's operations, and are bending every effort to trace the identity of the man. What his motive is or the nature of the poison employed, has not yet been determined, but it is a long lane that has no turn, and with out doubt it is only a question of time when he will be apprehended and made to pay the penalty of his crime.—Baker Democrat.

What Makes a Woman?

One hundred and twenty pounds, more or less, of bone and muscle don't make a woman. It is a good foundation. Put into it health and strength, and she may rule a kingdom. But that's just what Electric Bitters give her. Thousands bless them for overcoming fainting and dizzy spells and for dispelling weakness, nervousness, headache and tired listless, worn out feeling. "Electric Bitters have done me a world of good," writes Eliza Pool, Depew, Okla. "and I thank you with all my heart for making such a good medicine." Only 50c. Guaranteed by Slocum Drug Co.

Oregon has Chance to Capture Big Wheat Prize.

Oregon should capture the prize for the best five bushels of wheat grown in the American Northwest this year, but to do so will require careful selection and indeed it may be necessary to hand pick the wheat. It will pay to do it for a prize of $5,000 is offered by the Northwest Development League for the best five bushels exhibited at the Minneapolis Land Show in November. With the splendid grain crop assured for Oregon, this state should have any quantity of first class wheat to enter at this show.

Commercial bodies of the state are showing an interest in the collection of Oregon exhibits to be shown this winter at the land shows of the Middle West. In response to a call sent out by Manager Chapman of the Oregon Development League, many outside cities have been heard from, each promising to collect samples of the best products grown there this season and it seems a good collection is assured. No locality should allow itself to be unrepresented.

Following its success of last year, Port Orford will hold another aquatic carnival early in August. A big feature of the entertainment will be a reproduction of the famous Indian fight of Battle Rock.

Coos Bay claims the largest saw log. The C. A. Smith Co. has saved a giant spruce log estimated to have weighed over 18 tons, that scaled 19,600 feet of lumber. It was 75 feet long, seven feet in diameter at the butt and five feet eight inches at the top. This is thought to be the largest log ever hauled on a train anywhere.

Portland is ablaze with lights and streaming banners of purple and white this week in honor of the grand reunion of the Elks. Thousands of visitors from all parts of the country are here, and to many of the delegates, this is their first introduction to the Pacific Coast. Oregon lodges are co-operating heartily to welcome their visiting brothers from the Eastern states.

Moored in Portland harbor is the old fighting machine, the battleship, Oregon. For the first time in its long and eventful history, it is visiting its own state. Its arrival aroused great interest and big crowds have been visiting this sturdy old fighter.

Surveys at the mouth of the Columbia River show that the entrance is growing deeper. The area of water is growing, apparently through the action of the river current, which directed by the jetty, is scouring out the channel to a greater depth. Steadily improved conditions are looked for at the mouth of the river, particularly as work on the north jetty progresses.

Sherman county farmers have come to appreciate their experiment farm, located at Moro. Many at first doubted its utility but such valuable help has been given in conducting inquiries into better methods of agriculture that they are now thoroughly interested. A recent farmers' day brought hundreds of visitors to the station.

The Girl of Eagle Ranch is Coming Here

One of the most pretentious productions of border life, sensational, realistic, full of mirth, melody, pathos and a few tears, strong in plot and quick in action. The story deals with life in the west, the incidents are faithfully drawn, a picture of the happy go lucky, good natured and brave cowboy is drawn true to life, yet an atmosphere of culture and refinement prevails throughout the action of the entire production.

A whole car load of elaborate scenery and properties are used to give the production. In this great presentation the Acme of success has been attained, inasmuch as the play throughout is one of class and refinement.

Prof. Capontie's Celebrated Military band has been especially engaged to furnish classical free concerts every evening and the augmented Hungarian Orchestra will drive dull care away between the acts and accompany the vocal and dancing numbers on the program which, by the way, are many. The mammoth waterproof pavilion is elegantly appointed; the attaches are polite and gentlemanly, the opera chairs are comfortably arranged and the welfare and comfort of our thousands of patrons has been the coveted goal we aspired to and have reached and maintained through the entire existence of the great McDonald Shows. The above meritorious attraction will give one performance only at Heppner, Wednesday, July 17th. Free street parade on day and date of show. Show grounds at depot.
