Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparities is the fact that every purchase receives a fall equivalent for his money. Prof. Sanborn, after making many careful experiments in feeding swine, says that a bushel of evern fed to strong healthy shotes up to 130 pounds weight ought to make 14 pounds of pork. For a bushel of evern and long pork for a bushel of evern fed to be 10 pounds of pork. For a bushel of even, and only careful feeders, we ledieve, can get as much as 14 pounds of pork for a bushel of even, and only careful feeders, we ledieve, can get as much as 15 pounds. If pigs were fed only with even meal the cost of the pork here, or rather of the feed to make it, would be about the same that the pork is sold for in market. But as usually fed pigs consume much that would otherwise be wasted.

All respectable papers commend the managers of the Vermont state fair for their promise to exclude from the grounds all games of chance, gambling of every nature and form, and ale, beer, wine and all kinds of intoxicating liquors. The New England Fermer says: "This is an excellant move and must be an easy regulation to enforce at a fair where the grounds have been so free from such blemishes as have the grounds of the Vermont society of the cellar or its pounds. Some agricultural societies that we have heard of full to appreciate the value of the press in general, and the local press in particular. It cannot harm any managers to read the following, which a Michigan agricultural society places upon the complimentary tickets which it issues to newspaper men:

"This ticket has probably been paid for a dozen times over by the paper to which it is issued. It will be honored in the hands of any man, woman erelidid, white or black, red or yellow, who favors the society by presenting it. It is good for entrance and grand stand, and the bearer, if driving, will be entitled to pass a team free. The association recognizes the fact that its splendid success is own far largel, if not wholly, to the notices so freely given it by the press, and while we cannot render an equivalent in each, we return our grateful thanks."
