NOTICE.

WHEREAS it has been made known from time to time by various persons to the effect that the trustees under the will of Thomas Thompson are liable for debts incurred by or behalf of those seamstresses, needle women, or shop girls who were entitled to special aid under said will;

WHEREAS said claims appear to be continually made in spite of continued and emphatic denial by said trustees that they are liable to prevent misunderstanding and trouble in the future, give notice that they will either make payment for pay or claim made by any one for services rendered or goods supplied to any of said beneficiaries, whether said services be for medical or dental service, for medical supplies, or for food, clothing, rent, or fuel, whether necessary or not?

They further give notice that they have not authorized, and do not intend authorizing, any agents, brokers, or intermediaries to act on their behalf or of beneficiaries to incur such obligations on the part of their agents.

Notwithstanding the said trustees will not render aid to sewing women and shop girls, but is intended to render aid to those who are in need and said trustees have not acknowledged, nor will they acknowledge, any obligation or liability to other persons on account of aid given to said beneficiaries or to any beneficiaries or aid given to women claiming to be beneficiaries under said will.

It is the intention of said trustees that money finished by them for the benefit of said beneficiaries be expended as claim made and not for the benefit of the beneficiaries themselves when well and responsible, or to such relatives as may be in charge of their affairs in case of sickness or disability, and that such money shall not be paid to other persons claiming to have rendered service or to have sold goods to such beneficiaries under said will.
