

Season Opens Brilliantly With Beautiful Debut Ball

The social season of 1920-1921 opened brilliantly on Friday evening with the formal presentation of the lovely young girls who will be the leaders of the debutante set this year.

The Hotel Gayoso, which was the scene of the formal introduction, presented a picture worthy of the brush of an artist and might well have borne the title "L'Automne," so exquisitely were all the gorgeous colorings of autumn blended in the decorations.

The maple tree, the queen of the autumn wood, contributed to the beauty of the scene, the walls being hung with magnificent sprays of maple foliage in the loveliest tints of vivid scarlet, burnished gold, soft green, russet brown and crimson, while giant-golden chrysanthemums, artistically arranged in floor vases about the room, brought out the dominant tone in the autumn motif.

In this group of beautiful young girls, who made their formal bow to society on this occasion, were:

Miss Louise Ann Roberts, wearing in peach broche crepe, elaborated with iridescent embroidery, the right side panel ornamented with a large silver bow having a bodice of silver cloth and pampers of Chantilly lace. Her flowers were pink roses, orchids, and valley lilies with a shower of hand-painted butterfly bows. Escort, Mr. Leroy Kerr.

Miss Ellen Craft, wearing a simple French model of white metallic cloth, veiled in white tulle with garniture of silver lace, exquisitely embroidered in rose design. She carried a bouquet of Richmond roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Gordon Wood.

Miss Mettie Dunscomb, wearing a Lucile model of flesh chiffon having draperies of cream lace, caught with tiny clusters of French flowers in pastel tints, their delicate tones repeated in the girdle. Her flowers were Columbia roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. J. Hunter Phillips.

Miss Lucy Dillard, gowned in metallic cloth veiled in gold lace, caught with clusters of French flowers, with a bouquet of Premier roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. James Duckery.

Miss Louise Richardson, wearing shell pink satin draped in silver embroidered lace, with pearl shoulder bands. Her flowers were pink roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Preston Watson.

Miss Frances Pope, wearing a Juliet model of French crepe in flesh tint, embroidered in silver with garniture of silver lace in which the design was outlined in sequins. Her flowers were orchids. Sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Frank Barnwell.

Miss Mary Budd Stewart, wearing a Lucile model of silver embroidered in rhinestones caught at the side with a silver embroidered basket of pink roses. A garland of pink lilies was worn across the left shoulder and she wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Edmund Orgill.

Miss Louise Dale, wearing a Boue Lours model of silver cloth trimmed in silver lace embroidered in a French flower design. She carried a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. William Arrington.

Miss Margaret Oates, gowned in a French draped model of Nanking blue with garniture of sequin embroidery. Her flowers were Columbia roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Charles Lewis.

Miss Mildred Johnson, wearing a becoming model of white satin overlaid with flesh silk net and having a train of flesh velvet and trimmings of French flowers. Her bouquet was of orchids, buvardia and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. John Gerber.

Two pretty girls who will also be numbered among the debutantes of the season and will be formally introduced later, were included among the belles of the evening. They were:

Miss Minor Banks, wearing an imported gown of dull gold net heavily beaded in Bulgarian motifs over silver cloth with silver lace garniture, and carrying a bouquet of orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Charles Chamberlain.

Miss Sarah Avery, wearing orchid chiffon, embroidered in silver, with silver lace trimming and a corsage bouquet of Sweetheart roses, orchids and valley lilies. Escort, Mr. Clarence Bynard.

Following the grand march, the first two dances were exclusively for the debutantes, after which all of the guests joined in dancing, the music being furnished by a band of Hawaiian musicians.

Adding to the pleasure of dancing was the excellent floor management of the committee, composed of Messrs. Cecil M. Norfleet, chairman, and Edward Smith, Donelson Lake, Sam Latta, John Austin, Henry Craft, Meacham Stewart, Fells Austin, Horner Richardson, Dickson Abston, Louis Carruthers, McKay Van Fleet, Hubert Reese, Rufus Armistead, Malcolm Esbarro, Neely Grant, Dorion Fleming, Harned Newborn, Hugh Fontaine and Wm. Bailey.

Midway of the evening a delicious menu was served in the dining room, where each of the 75 tables was adorned with a large basket filled with pompon chrysanthemums in exquisite pastel shades.

Besides the debutantes, others among the beautifully gowned maids and matrons present were:

Miss Gertrude Russell, wearing an imported model of cell blue satin, hand-embroidered in pink rose design, having let-in bands of lace and ribbons and garlanded with French flowers. Her flowers were pink roses, orchids and valley lilies; escort, Dr. Giles Coors.
