COLONEL JOHN JOHNSON OF NEBRASKA Lives Near Ashiand. ASHLAND, Neb., April 27 .- (Special.)-One mile west of this city resides Colonel

John Johnson, who has reached his 106th year and is remarkably well preserved. In appearance the colonel, as he prefers being called, is a typical "Rip Van Winkle." His gryous system is comparatively strong, but his strength is gradually failing him and he is now becoming more feeble daily. His eyesight and teeth are in an almost perfect condition. He is able to recognize any one at a listance of forty rods very readily. During the preparation for the World's fairx-Governor Robert W. Furnas had the arangements completed for his going to the air as the oldest man in Nebraska, but unfortunat ly he was taken with grip, from which time dates his declining months Colonel Johnson was born in Cleveland, O.,

from England. His father was of English birth, while his mother was a little Scotch lady, who never weighed to exceed 100 pounds, but, after raising a family of fifteen children, lived to be 120 years old.

The colonel was the oldest son in the family and spent his boyhood days on a farm, engaging at an early date with his father in cattle buying, wool raising and meat packing, which business he has followed since, When quite a young man he received a commission as colonel of a local company of soldiers that were being drilled for military service. This was a great deal on the same plan as Nebraska's state militia. This title he still carries. He cast his first vote for President James Madison when he was elected to his second term in 1812. This act the colonel claims is very vivid on his mind yet, as a great many other acts of his early life. A representative of The Bee called on the colonel today and it was indeed a treat to hear him describe with clearness and ac-curacy his training of soldiers who fought in the war of 1812, which he said was of the strictest kind, as required by law.

There were three children born to them, one of which is yet living, at the age of 83. He was married the second time in 1861, to his present wife. Three children were the result of this union.

He also told of how during his early days hey would start from Cleveland with a sunch of eattle numbering from 300 to 1,000 D. T. In connection with his life he gave some very interesting reminiscences which portray the state of affairs in Ohio in the early part of the century.

To the question, "Colonel, what do you consider to be your earliest recollection?" he responded: "My son, that would be hard to tell. It has been so long since I had my first thought, but I think I can remember what must have been my first important recollection. I can remember General Washington and he was the tailest feller I ever saw and
