UNIQUE PUBLICITY SCHEME

Thermos Bottle Mounted on an Automobile Attracts Attention on City Streets.

One of the most unique and striking moving advertisements yet seen on the streets of Omaha is the aluminum-clad auto of the company which manufactures the Thermos bottle. It is labeled all over in bright letters, "Thermos, the Bottle," and is built as near to the exact shape of a bottle as was possible. It looks more like a steel-covered war machine than anything else, and is of 120-horsepower, of the six-cylinder type. There is room in the machine only for the driver and one other person, as the section usually given over to the tonnage is completely covered by the large part of the bottle, the wheels being let into the tubular part by cutting away the sides.

William B. Walker, formerly an Omaha man, is president and owner of the company manufacturing the Thermos bottles and he has been in charge of the machine here. The W. G. Clark company is agent for this district.

HAYDEN'S BUY SAMPLE PIANOS.

Instruments on Exhibition at National Piano Dealers' Convention Brought to Omaha.

Richmond, Va., was the Mecca for piano manufacturers' representatives during the recent meeting of the National Piano Dealers' association.

Piano dealers from all parts of the country were to be in attendance and every manufacturer was anxious to have the most creditable showing possible of their instruments on the ground.

It is needless to say that the very best products of the various manufacturers were shown for the reason that they were there for closest examination and most rigid testing of expert piano men from all over the land.

After the exhibition the manufacturers were willing to sell at a sacrifice rather than return the instruments to the factory and our buyers very low cash offer for many of the lots was accepted. The result when the pianos arrive will be the greatest bargain opportunities in high grade pianos we have yet offered in any city. Watch papers for further particulars and dates of sale.

ROOSEVELT WRITES OMAHA

Tells President of Central Republican Club He Would Like to Come.

MAY STOP OVER IN AUGUST

Gifford Pinchot Also Writes the Club that He Desires to Accept Its Invitation to Speak in Omaha.

In a letter to the president of the Central Republican club, dated Berlin, May 11, former President Roosevelt indicates that he is receiving so many invitations for addresses that he cannot at this time accept any. He does not say he will not come to Omaha, in fact rather leaves the impression that on he may be able to accept the invitation to him. It will be noted in the letter below Mr. Roosevelt signs himself, "In great haste," and the signature, written in his own hand, indicates that it must have been dashed off at race-horse speed. The great hunter says:

"My Dear Mr. Rydner: I cannot accept any invitations now, not even as attractive as one you have extended. Perhaps when I come home, I will be able to, but I don't care to make any promise, for the number of requests I have had for speeches exceeds belief. In great haste, faithfully yours,

As the Omaha invitation did not look to the making of a long speech so much as an opportunity for all the people to meet the former president under its auspices informally, the Central Republican club still hopes to have Roosevelt for its guest in August. Sometime during that month, it is understood, he will travel west to Denver and Cheyenne, and if he does, the club officers expect he will accept their invitation.

Word has also been received by the Central club from Gifford Pinchot that he very much desires to accept an invitation to come to Omaha and make an address at a banquet, planned for a date sometime in July, but he is as yet unable to set a date. An acceptance, naming a date for his Omaha visit, is expected from Mr. Pinchot any time this month.

COLLECTION OF STAGE CELEBRITIES AT LIBRARY

Omaha Newspaper Man Loans His Valuable Assortment for Public View.

Through the kindness of James Houston, an Omaha newspaper man, the Omaha public library has received the loan of a valuable collection of pictures of stage celebrities with their autographs. A number of the photographs were taken by Louis Hostwick in original poses, and the librarian is greatly pleased with the loan of the collection.

The majority of the pictures were taken in Omaha and among the number is one of Joseph Jefferson sitting on George L. Linniger's porch, telling Mr. Linniger the story of his little dog Schneider. Jefferson posed this picture, saying that he told a great many stories and wanted to be caught at it by the camera. Francis Wilson was snapped while taking a stroll through Hanscom park with a couple of young Americans. He may be seen carrying a freshly cut pole, and the youngsters are pointing out to him the way to the pond and the fish. Another picture shows the actor sitting upon a fence rail waiting for a bite.

Nat C. Goodwin was caught reading one of his own posters in front of the Boyd theater, and William Collier is in the act of "making up" Mrs. Patrick Campbell may be seen in a number of poses. One is a head and shoulder view taken in her dressing room, another is where she is visiting the sick in the hospitals and still a third is a picture of the celebrated actress as she is about to enter Trinity cathedral in New York, showing that stage people attend church as regularly as the average citizen.

Among the others are photographs of Gus and Max Rogers, Ezra Kendall, George W. Wilson, Stuart Robson, Kyrie Bellew, William L. Abington, Mary Munchoff, E. M. Sothern, Fay Temple, Madame Nazimova, Maude Adams, Louise A. Potter, Helene Modjeska, Richard Mansfield, Sarah Bernhardt, C. Coquelin, Mrs. Gilbert and Annie Russell, Mary Shaw, Madame Calve, Otis Skinner, Joseph M. Weber, Lew Fields and William A. Crane.

In addition to the collection of stage celebrities he has loaned a set of reproductions of the illustrations for Arabian Nights by Maxfield Parrish. The pictures are in colors and are to be labelled and placed in the children's room.

Omaha Dairies Show Much Better on Second Test

Small Percentage of Cows Respond to the Tuberculin Test of City Veterinarian.

City Veterinarian Young, who has been conducting the second test of cows furnishing milk for consumption in Omaha, reports to Health Commissioner Connell that he finds a very encouraging condition in the dairies at the present time.

Out of 175 cows subjected to the tuberculin test recently but fifteen have reacted. "This is a very small percentage," said Dr. Young, "and indicates that the dairymen are exercising much more care than formerly with their herds. Where new animals are bought the dairymen are taking every precaution to see that they are not infected. At first the tests instituted seemed unnecessarily strict to many of the dairymen, but they are now realizing that it is the very thing they needed to enable them to keep the public confidence, and Omaha will get better milk from this on."

Dean Beecher Joins Ad Club

E. S. Grover of Missouri Boosts for Missouri River Navigation.

Rev. G. A. Beecher, dean of Trinity Cathedral, was elected an honorary member of the Omaha Ad club Tuesday at the meeting held in the Merchants hotel, and in making his opening address he said that he was glad to see that the club held its meetings while the lid was off.

"I think," said Dean Beecher, "that it is well for the people of Omaha to understand that it is a good thing to have the lid off as long as there is nothing under the lid which smells bad or tastes bad."

"He complimented the club upon the work it is doing in helping to build up the community, and said that he was glad to be a member to help the good work along."

Hon. E. S. Grover of Grant City, Mo., was the chief speaker at the dinner, and said that navigation on the Missouri was the subject which should interest the people of Omaha. He spoke of the freight rates being increased by the railroads and said that the opening of the river would mean a boom for Nebraska shippers. The other speakers were Colonel M. A. Bates of Plattsmouth and John H. Wiles.

Mrs. Jane Haas of Council Bluffs was instantly killed Tuesday morning and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Frank S. Haas, seriously injured in a runaway accident which occurred at 11:30 on the hill from Gramham avenue to Fairmount park in Council Bluffs.

The dead woman and the younger Mrs. Haas were out driving in a phaeton. Mrs. Jane Haas was dead when picked up. Her neck is believed to have been broken by the accident.

Her daughter-in-law suffered a broken thigh and internal injuries are feared. She was taken at once to Edmundson Memorial hospital.
