Postmaster-general Wanamaker has recently issued a circular to all postmasmasters, clerks and agents warning them that it is contrary to postal regulations to furnish to outside parties the names of persons receiving mail at their postoffices. The law is strictly against it, as it facilitates advertising fakes, circulation of questionable literature, etc. The order is a good one.

The executive committee of the democratic party in Minnesota attempted to tile in the secretary of state's office four certificates of people's party presidential electors for place on the state ticket as democrats. The secretary refused to file them. The democrats applied to the circuit and supreme courts for mandamus proceedings to compel him, but they refused, because unconstitutional, and thus fusion is killed in Minnesota.

The Sioux Falls Press of the 19th contains a dispatch from Howard which on the bridge. states that Senator Kyle while at the Wheeler house in that place called President Harrison a "pup." A correspondent in the Sioux Falls Argus-Leader of the 19th, writing from Gettysburg, S. D., states that Major Pickler called John A. Logan a liar, or words to that effect. What men will say in a passionate moment of debate you never can tell, but in their sober senses neither of the above gentlemen would make any such remark and we doubt very much if they even made such remarks in the heat of debate. There has been a persistent effort made by independent papers and democratic correspondents of the Argus-Leader this fall to make personal attacks upon republican candidates and speakers, many of which have no doubt been maliciously false, and this injustice may have prompted the Howard correspondent to retaliate. If so, it is a weakness, criminal in its intent and not to be condoned even under aggravated insult. We trust, as we believe, that neither of these reports are true, and that time will so demonstrate. Republicans have nothing to fear from maintaining the purity and integrity of the campaign which they have heretofore waged and it is not only too late in the day now, but entirely unnecessary to pursue any other than an honorable course. The day is won, and votes are coming to us fast. Such evidence of weakness as those referred to belong to the other parties.

An important decision has just been handed down in the United States court of appeals by Justice Brewer in relation to the "long and short haul" clause of the interstate commerce act. It will revelutionize not only the rates of tariff or less powder suitable for this calibre will olutionize not only the rates of tariff or freights now charged, but will overthrow the entire code of rules and regulations built up on the past intrepretation of the law. The whole change is caused by Judge Brewer's definition of the word "line." Heretofore, when two roads connecting to carry through freights, say, the Great Northern from Aberdeen to St. Paul and the Northwestern from St. Paul to Chicago, the city, and immediately went into executwo roads so connecting to carry freights have been called a line from Aberdeen to Chicago and under the wording of the interstate commerce act this construction of the word necessitated the regulation of charges for local freights on either of the two shorter lines or roads by the price charged on the through line of which these roads were a part. As the law says that no more shall be charged for a short haul than a long one, the charges for through freights have regulated the charges for local freights all along the two roads. But now Judge Brewer decides that the word line in this case implies only the through line and the two roads on local business are also two separate and distinct lines; that there are three distinct lines in a business sense, independent of each other and that the "long and short" clause as applied to the through line does not control the local tariffs of the two short lines.

Willing to Fight Corbett.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.-The Police Gazette London correspondent sends the following: The appeal of Charley Mitchell in his case, for which Police Justice Vaughan sentenced him to two months hard labor, came up and was postponed until January. It is the general opinion that the case will be quashed in January. After the court proceedings Mitchell called at The Sporting Life office and stated that he was now prepared to fight Jim Corbett for $10,000 a side, the fight to be decided in May in New Orleans if the Olympic club offered the largest purse.

New Guns for the Army.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The board of ordnance, which has had the duty of anjusting a smaller calibre rifle sights and other details of the new magazine gun for the army, has handed in an interesting report. Its importance may be judged by the fact that the new weapon, which is a modification of the Kelag-Jergensen gun, will be made at the Springfield (Mass.) national armory for the army and marine corps, and that the navy will also change its rifle to correspond. It is hoped to have some of the new weapons ready by Jan. 1, have been adopted by that time. The calibre of the army rifle will be reduced

The Inaugural Reception and Banquet at the Auditorium in the Evening.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20 .- A crisp, invigorating atmosphere, its touch of frost generally tempered by the genial rays of the sun as it broke down from a cloudless sky, comes as a welcome relief after the rain and drizzle and mist of a day and night, and might be interpreted as a special recognition from the elements of the opening day of the period set apart for the festivities incident to the dedica-

In many respects the scenes are vivid remainders of those that were enacted hereabouts but a few months since. when the representatives of the Democracy of the nation assembled to select their standard bearer. But large as the crowd already on the ground is it is not a circumstance to that which may be expected by sundown. Special trains, packed with men and women of note and distinction, are speeding Chicago ward, representing pretty well every state and territory; while the ordinary trains are running in two, three and in some cases, four sections. At times the tide of humanity poured itself out of the Union and Grand Central depots as if it never intended to stop.

f Is Children's Day. A silken flag-as bright in colors as i is superfine in texture—floats proudly from the roof of every public school house in Chicago and Cook county. It is Children's Day. The little ones who toddle to the infant school to learn their first letters, to the big ones who have mounted, step by step on the ladder of instruction to the high school, and are now about ready to go forth and battle with the world—the rising generation those who will aid a few years hence through the ballot box in controlling the destinies of the nation—these it is that have selected to inaugurate the celebration of the week.

A committee representing the state and city superintendents had arranged a programme for the celebration in the public schools, and the children executed this order of exercises with vim when school opened. No union or con-centration of pupils was attempted, but simuitaneously in the scores of school buildings. The rooms in which the exercises were to take place, all decorated in a manner appropriate to the occasion, and commemorative of the great discovery, were given up to the doings of the happy little ones. The first exercise was the reading of President Harrison's proclamation. This was followed by a flag raising, and the pupils saluted the colors. They also pledged their Allegiance to the Flag in concert and sang "America." The next feature of the programme was reading of the scripture as an acknowledgement of the Divine Being. The schools then joined in singing "Columbus Day," after which the programme was varied according to the grade. In primary grades, the little ones recited patriotic verses and sang little songs, while in the grammer and high school grades historical essays were read, declamations delivered and also singing. The next number on the programme was Joaquin Miller's song "Columbus," as arranged by O. Blackman. In the upper grades an address was read by one of the pupils, entitled "The Meaning of Four Centuries." This was omitted in the lower grades, as well as the ode "Columbia's Banner," by Edna Dean Proctor. "The Flag of the Free," by the school, closed the exercises. Cabinet Officers Arrive.

Where Strong Men Lived. After the Spanish occupation of the Grand Canary a certain enormous stone was for a long time pointed out as one of the instruments of the Gaunche athletic courses. The natives had been able to lift it, set it on their shoulders and even throw it over their heads. Their degenerate posterity and the Spaniards could not raise it from the It was reckoned nothing out of the common for a man to take an untethered ox by the horn with one hand and slay it with the other. A certain native born priest of Grand Canary in the Seventeenth century showed that he inherited some of his ancestors' vigor, for one day, hearing that an enraged bull had broken loose and was in the street, he ran out and grasping it by the leg threw it down, and so held it until its owner was able to secure it.

This doughty son of the church before his death chanced to have one of his legs amputated for a cancer. It was then found that his thigh bone was solid, with no trace of marrow. It must be confessed, however, that the relics of the Canarians now found in their burying places do not bear out the inference that this was a national characteristic, though their dimensions are certainly a testimony of the strength and size of their late proprietors.-National Review.

He Thought He Knew That Face. "I pride myself on never forgetting a reaching and iridescent failure," said A. G. Smoot as he bruised the crumbs of the table d'hote out of his whiskers. Some years ago I was in a Boston street car when a lady entered whose face was very familiar. I felt that I knew her well, but to save me I could not recall her name. I shook hands with her, asked after her health and tried to make myself very agreeable. She treated me to ice water, but that is a peculiarity of some women, so I didn't mind. Finally she told me frankly that she had not the pleasure of my acquaintance.
"That bluffed me, but I handed her my card. She read the name and shook her head. She was quite sure that she had never even heard of me. I subsided and put on my thinking cap. Was she making game of me or was it possible that I was mistaken? I couldn't make it out. That night I went to the theater and the mystery was solved. The woman I knew so well, but who had never heard of me, was that queen of tragedy. Mrs. D. P. Bowers.

Soap

The skin ought to be clear; there is nothing strange in a beautiful face.

If we wash with proper soap, the skin will be open and clear, unless the health is bad. A good skin is better than a doctor.

The soap to use is Pears'; no alkali in it. It is perhaps the only soap in the world with no alkali in it.

All sorts of stores sell it, especially druggists; all sorts of people use it.
