Twenty-five members were present at the University Extension circle last evening and had a most delightful exercise in free question and discussion on the influence of the Greek nation on modern civilization. It was voted to take one more lesson, two weeks from last evening on the periods of the Peloponnesian war and the Macedonian supremacy.

Master Clarence Dempster is four years old to-day and is celebrating the event by giving a birthday party to the following dozen of his young companions from three to five years old: Lura and Henry Williamson, Merl and Ray Jones, Charles Goff, Eva Seaton, John Gorton, Mabel Johnson, Myron and Horace Mease, David and Bessie Neill. The lots had all the joys that life affords in the way of games and dainties.

Of J. Frank Fouché, who recites at the Baptist church to-morrow evening the Pittsburg, Pa., Dispatch, says: "A Scholar's Funeral, The Cunning Speech of Dr. Drumtohty, and the Doctor's Last Journey, from 'The Bonnie Brier Bush,' Prof. Fouché read in a most effective manner. The Murder of King Duncan proved him a most intense tragedian. The two selections from Eugene Field were very pleasing and enthusiastically received. A return engagement has been made for the professor, when he will read Othello." Admission 25 and 15 cents.

The Galesburg, Ill., Republican-Register of the 30th ult., which is at hand devotes nearly an entire page to an obituary of the Rev. Dr. Bateman, who died October 21st in the 76th year of his age. Dr. Bateman was for 12 years state superintendent of Illinois doing more to shape the excellent public school system of that state than any man in its history and was for 19 years president of Knox College. He was considered one of the greatest educators in the nation; a man of spotless Christian character and the most intimate personal friend which Abraham Lincoln had. His death has a local interest also, in that Mrs. J. Y. Ewart, formerly of this city was his daughter.
We see by the obituary notice that Rev. and Mrs. Ewart spent much of the past summer with Dr. Bateman in his last sickness and were present at the funeral at Galesburg last week.

November Forecasts.

Hicks in his predictions for November weather says that the general cloudiness and a tendency to rain, drizzle and sleet will be noticeable up to the 3 or 4th.
A sharp change to colder may be expected before the 6th. From the 6th to 11th falls the regular storm period which will be central on the 7th. From about the latter date Wednesday, the 10th, there will be some storms of marked severity in all probability. These storms will begin in the west and travel to the east and will last only a day or so at the most in any locality, being succeeded by fair, colder weather in western sections before the actual storms end in the east.
From about the 9th to the 12th a cold wave will sweep eastward that will demand some consideration for the comfort of man and beast and for the protection of perishable goods.

On and about the 13th and 14th, the skies will react into softness, winds will change to southerly, barometer will fall and more or less rains, snow and storm-iness will pass over the country. Changes are that fitful, unsettled weather will last into the regular Vulcan period, reaching from the 16th to 21st. From the 17th to 20th there will be some severe storms. About the 24th a well defined warm wave and low barometer will be in transit from the west. These conditions will rapidly turn into violent storm areas of wind, rain and snow, and from that date to the 27th each section of the country will in its turn be visited by these disturbances. The cold wave following these disturbances will be generally felt almost or quite to the southern coasts. Without wise precautions lives and shipping will be destroyed on the lakes and North Atlantic.

The cold weather will moderate in the west about the 29th, the barometer will begin to fall and return of rain and snow will be the order, progressively from west to east into the opening days of December. The same general characteristics of the weather late in November will prevail throughout December.

scanty urine are surely and speedily called cures; but DeWitt's was the one that did the work and he will verify this statement if anyone wishes to write him.
