Mrs. H. H. Cole and Mrs. Barber

were passengers north last evening en route to points in Wisconsin. Their nephew, Bartlett Cole, is recovering from his slight attack of typhoid fever and hopes to be out in a few days.

Joseph Power a well known resident of Wentworth, has in his yard a freak in the form of a box-elder tree which has become quite green with a second growth of foliage. Early in September this tree, with the rest in his yard, lost all of its leaves, but during the past few days has developed a new growth.

John Huntamer of Lakeview: "On my recent visit to Wisconsin I saw several soldiers' monuments, some of them very nice, and I am pleased to learn that there is a movement to build one in Madison. No doubt they exert a good influence, and when the time comes I want to contribute something toward the enterprise."

There are indications of the threshing season drawing to a close. An Indiana man who shipped in a rig this fall, hauled in his machine last night and will reship to his former home. The freight on the rig from Indiana to Madison amounted to $10 and with an equal amount for returning, it would look as if there was a profit in the threshing business.

A poultry car is on track for the use of Abbott & Mitchell who will ship a carload of live poultry to the Chicago market on the 15th inst. The car is screened with wire and divided in eight flats one above the other. When loaded the car will contain about 6,000 birds—chickens, turkeys and ducks. Abbott & Mitchell are excavating and will construct a cement lined basement under house and in addition to their butter, egg and poultry business will handle apples by the carload.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

West Black Hills Lover Kills His Sweetheart and Commits Suicide.

A double tragedy occurred in the western portion of the Black Hills in which a young rancher and his sweetheart were the principals.

Albert Jensen, the young rancher, killed his sweetheart by striking her on the head with a shotgun, and then took his own life by cutting his throat.

Jensen was a former resident of Lawrence county, as was also Miss Tina Johnson, his sweetheart, who, with her parents, departed about eighteen months ago for their new home in the western part of the Black Hills.

Jensen had been keeping company with the girl previous to their departure from Lawrence county. The tragedy occurred in Jensen's cabin, near the home of the Johnsons.

The girl was evidently killed instantly by the force of the blow across her forehead and face. Her body was found lying upon the floor of the cabin. There was a large hole in her forehead, and her face was badly mutilated.

After murdering the girl Jensen wrote three letters, all of which were to the effect that he was in love with her and that she had promised to marry him, but that she teased him all the evening and he became angry and killed her.

Jensen cut his throat with a razor, which was found lying beside the bed. His suffering must have been intense, for he had walked about the cabin, evidently for the purpose of getting a shell for his gun with which to put an end to his sufferings, as bloody tracks led up to a box containing some empty shells.

But there was no evidence that a shot was fired. An empty shell was found in his shotgun, but it is believed it was placed there after he had cut his throat. The last time Jensen and his sweetheart were seen alive was the evening before the day their bodies were discovered, when they departed for the purpose of attending a dance in the neighborhood.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substances that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve Cured Me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by Cook & Ode.

DIED AT NOON.

Peaceful Death of Lydia C. Lombard at Home of Daughter, Mrs. Davison.

A beautiful Christian life passed out at noon today in the death of Lydia C. Lombard, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Davison, in Eighth street. Surrounded by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Davison, only grandchild, Lulu Davison, and Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Lombard of Ortonville, Minn., she accepted the message in the same spirit of resignation which characterized her Christian patience and cheerfulness of more than a year of illness which gradually wasted her form away. Deceased had made her home with her daughter since the death of her husband, L. F. Lombard, in this city eight years ago when together they were on a visit here. She had attracted to herself many warm friends among the ladies of Madison whom she always delighted to meet, and when she became so wasted with disease that she could not converse with them she desired that they come into her room that she might look upon their faces. So gentle and angelic was her last illness that it was touching to those about her that she made no demands upon them, but waited patiently and passed serenely into her last sleep without complaint, accepting all as the will of God. The only regret that passed her lips during her last sickness was the pain she felt at parting with her children whom she dearly loved.

Lydia C. Lombard was born in Bethel, Maine, 65 years ago last April 30. Here she grew to young womanhood and was married to her deceased husband December 31, 1867. A year after they came west to Chatfield, Minn., where they passed their married life until broken by death of the husband eight years ago. Two children were born to them—Mrs. Hattie Davison and Mr. E. V. Lombard of Ortonville, Minn. Two sisters and a brother survive, residents of Maine. The fatal illness of deceased dated back two years when an internal tumor developed which was successfully removed but later a second tumor followed of so delicate a nature that surgeons advised that it was beyond their skill to remove, when she accepted the inevitable and passed to her death so patiently and Christianlike, of which her sorrowing daughter speaks touchingly.

A funeral service will be held at the home tomorrow at 2 p. m. by the Rev. Hugh Robinson of the Presbyterian church, of which deceased was a member. The remains will be taken by the north train tomorrow evening, accompanied by the children, and laid beside the husband and father, at Chatfield, Minn.

Friends may view the remains in the parlors of the home from 1 to 2 p. m.

KILLED A DEER.

Watertown Sportsmen Kill Big Game and Win Out on Game Law.

Watertown dispatch, 3: While Jas. Wiley was driving in from the lake Saturday afternoon, he discovered a young 3-year old buck lying in a small ravine. Not having a firearm, he rushed to this city and got our crack shot, Ed P. Troeh, to go out and kill it. They went out and killed it and came to town, only to be arrested for hunting and killing deer out of season. They were released on bail and trial called before a judge this afternoon, at which time the case was dismissed on a small technicality of the law. The 1903 law reads that no person was allowed to hunt buffalo, elk deer or mountain sheep, the comma being left out by the compositor of the code. Therefore, as it was not an elk, the case was dismissed. Had they been found guilty, the least they could have gotten was $100 fine and sixty days in jail. The plaintiffs got the deer and are now treating their friends to a nice piece of venison. The deer was supposed to have been driven into this part of the country by a pack of dogs.

AN ART GALLERY

is needed in every city, it is a source of education to old and young. Madison does not furnish an Art Gallery but FRANK SMITH does and invites you to the store to see the exhibition. This week we are showing particularly Hand-Painted china and Art Leather goods. Our leather goods are after such artists as Chas. Dana Gibson, Wenzel and others. Our china after Vidal, Griffutes, Noble and others of like reputation.

There is, no such stock in any city west of Chicago and our prices are lower than they can be sold in larger cities where it costs so much to do business.

Look at our north and south windows for a corroboration of the above.

An Improbable Political Story
Eminates from Upstate Sources.

Aberdeen dispatch, 3: There are rumors afloat in this city to the effect that ex-United States Senator R. F. Pettigrew is to be selected as the South Dakota member of the national democratic committee some time in the near future, and that he will take up his residence in Deadwood, and from the site of the Homestake mine, which is owned by the Hearst estate, begin his work in behalf of the party of Jefferson.

If Pettigrew takes up his residence in Deadwood he will certainly have the support of the Hearst millions should he undertake to have himself elected to succeed Robert J. Gamble as senator, and it is believed that he is laying his plans for some such coup. It is asserted that the Black Hills may demand the successor to Senator Gamble, and if that is the case, and Congressman Martin cannot be elected by the republicans to succeed himself, the Hills people may conclude that a democrat is better than no senator, and support Mr. Pettigrew.

Wanted. To sell house and lot, and ten acres of land in the southwest part of Madison. Enquire of F. J. Burnett.

Do you feel mean, fagged out, all run down, no life? Why not take Rocky Mountain Tea? Makes you well and keeps you well. 35 cents. Frank Smith.
