THE ASSEMBLY

IN ADDITION TO CHAUTAUQUA ROUTINE, CHINESE ACROBATS ENTERTAIN.

Yesterday at the lake was a profitable day for the assembly. Much interest was taken in the chautauqua routine during the day by those who are located at the lake to take in the full course. The evening was delightful from a weather standpoint and a large number of people went to the lake by automobile and train to witness the evening entertainment. The Royal Pekinese acrobats gave an exhibition at the auditorium lasting an hour, and it was fine. This was followed by a lecture by S. L. Krebs, subject, Psychology of Salesmanship. The acrobats are superior to professionals in their line and accomplished feats that were extraordinary. They gave a performance this afternoon and will close their engagement with a performance at 8:15 this evening.

Tomorrow will be a big day at the lake—set apart as W. C. T. U. day. Many prominent state W. C. T. U. workers and suffragists are on the ground, ready for the big day. There will be parades, lectures and other articles. They gained entrance by breaking in a window at the rear of the store. No clue or trace of their whereabouts could be found.
Madison baseball fans will be entertained Tuesday, June 30, at 3 p. m., at Athletic park by a game between Luverne and Howard teams. These teams have made fine records during the season and will no doubt put up a fine game for the benefit of Madison people who enjoy the sport.
Wentworth Enterprise: The body of Mrs. Isaac Demmersmen of Alpha, Minn., a former resident and one of our pioneers, was brought here Tuesday for burial in the Rose Hill cemetery. The deceased, with her husband, homesteaded southeast of Wentworth years ago and afterwards moved to town where they engaged in the hotel business for some years. They removed to Minnesota several years ago. The deceased is survived by husband and seven children, all of whom were present at the burial services. Short services were conducted in town by Rev. J. A. McAlmon, when the remains were taken to the cemetery and laid to rest.
Chas. Howard, transient, had a hearing before Judge Sponholz this morning, charged with holding up Julius Kerstein Tuesday night and relieving him of his watch. The hold-up occurred a short distance west of the depot. Howard established the fact to the satisfaction of the court that he was present at a beer party near the chautauqua road, east of the creamery, that a quarrel arose among the guests and he left the party to come to the city and upon reaching the creamery bridge he crawled under the bridge and made his bed for the night. Howard answers the description of the bare-headed man who hailed several automobiles returning from the lake, as he entered a saloon early the next morning barked and was given a cap by the bartender. The case against Howard was dismissed.

FIREMEN, ATTENTION!

UNDER ADVISEMENT

JUDGE JONES HEARS THE WENTWORTH LIQUOR LICENSE CASE.

Hans Urdahl returned from Sioux Falls, where he appeared as attorney for the applicants in the Wentworth liquor license case.
This is a case where the drys attack the sufficiency of the petition on which the election which carried for license was voted. There were twenty-seven names to the petition, when the law calls for but twenty-five. Prior to the spring election the drys attacked the sufficiency of the petition and set up that there were more than enough illegal names on the petition to bring it below the required twenty-five. Judge Jones would not grant the injunction asked to prevent a vote on the license question and stated that by doing so he would not deprive the drys of any of their rights as they could renew their attack after election and prevent the granting of licenses if the petition was found defective. On the other hand if he held with the drys and prevented an election and afterwards it was found that the petition was legal the wrong could not be remedied.
The citizens of Wentworth voted in favor of license, and now the question reverts to the sufficiency of the petition on which the election was based and the taking of testimony on this point was heard by the court yesterday.

After the conclusion of taking testimony, Judge Jones took the case under advisement.

MOVIES NOT BARRED

Law Prescribes Class of Pictures Not To Be Shown on Sunday.

Sioux Falls, June 26.—There was a case before Judge Jones in chambers this morning which has for its object the closing of the moving picture house at Salem on Sundays. The legislature at its last session passed a bill which prescribes what class of films can be exhibited.
John Cox, proprietor of the Salem moving picture house was arrested for running his show on Sunday. He won his case in the local courts when States Attorney Clyde King took an appeal and the case was heard before Judge Jones in this city this morning. Judge Jones holds that there is no law preventing the exhibition of four certain classes of moving pictures on Sunday. The law of 1913 prohibits what class of pictures are prohibited.

Mr. Cox was represented by Attorney E. H. Wilson, and both attorney and client returned home greatly elated over the decision of Judge Jones.

THE BANKERS

Early Day History of Banking in South Dakota.

Aberdeen, June 26.—One of the interesting features of the state bankers' association meeting here was the report of Secretary J. E. Platt of Clark. The report showed that when he was first elected secretary of the association there was a total of eight-two banks in South Dakota. At the date of his latest compilation on June 1, there were 629 banks in the state, of which 485 are state banks, 102 national banks, 14 private banks, nine trust companies and 10 banking corporations.

The bankers who died during the year were E. C. Stearns of Warner, Charles L. Johnson of Agar, George R. Freeman of Elk Point, H. J. Merdel of Beresford, E. R. Kenefick of Dell Rapids, A. K. Wood of Wood, Robert R. Roberts of Langford, M. Beebe of Ipswich and Elbert W. Morse of Faulkton.

Secretary Platt has discovered that the Dakota Bankers' association held a convention in Aberdeen in June, 1885. The journal of that meeting was preserved by the late M. P. Beebe, and seems to establish that the two Dakotas have the honor, jointly, of organizing the first state bankers' association in the United States. The third annual convention was held at Watertown in 1887, and from the journal of this convention it is learned that the first person to open a bank in the Dakotas was Mark H. Palmer, 23 years of age, who opened a bank on Second street in Yankton in 1869, with a capital of $1,000. The second bank was organized by C. E. Prentice on September 21, 1871, at Vermillion, and the third bank was started at Elk Point in the spring of 1872 by W. Hoffman. In the fall of that year P. P. Wintermute started a bank at Yankton. Wintermute afterward killed Gen. Edwin McCook, then secretary of the territory, at a meeting at Yankton to consider the proposition to encourage the coming of the Dakota Southern railway. Wintermute was tried, convicted and sentenced to ten years in prison, but later got a new trial and was acquitted.

WATERTOWN STORM

THE INJURED WILL ALL RECOVER—ASSISTANCE FOR THE LOSERS.

Watertown, June 26.—Reports from the most seriously injured in Tuesday night's tornado are optimistic, and all are said to have a chance to recover.

When daylight this morning broke over the trail of devastation left by the tornado which injured 20 people, two of them very seriously, wrecked 100 buildings and left hundred homeless in Watertown, the city, realizing the full extent of the destruction, at once began the work of caring for the destitute and repairing the damage.

All charitable organizations in the city united in providing a relief fund which will probably aggregate $10,000. The city commission in special session appropriated $1,000 and Codrington county is expected to duplicate this sum. The Commercial club gave $300. The remainder is being readily subscribed by public spirited citizens. Offers of aid from other cities have been received, but it was the expression of the commission and Commercial club that Watertown would be amply able to take care of its homeless. Destruction wrought by the cyclone today proved far greater than estimated.

Men who made a careful canvass of the stricken district found 115 residences wrecked, the damage running all the way from total demolition to the loss of a few shingles. This list does not include the wreckage of barns and garages of which a full hundred were shattered, turned upside down, blown against houses and strung along as splintered wood in the path of the storm. The tornado hit a section of Watertown built up largely with modern cottages and owned, as a rule, by salaried men. Most of them were built within the last four years. As a rule the storm ripped the roofs off of this class of dwellings, sucked out the windows and the torrential rain which followed ruined household effects.

In many instances the loss represents the savings of several years and the families are left with little save the clothes they wore at the time. Such as those, Watertown plans to help get another start.

Observers of the storm declare it was a typical tornado. The funnel formed just to the southwest of the city. Its forward movement was slow, but the rotary movement was terrific, the noise made as the storm advanced through the city is described as a grinding, groaning sound and could be heard for several miles. News from Goodwin, 12 miles east of Watertown, is to the effect that the storm had lost much of its tornado character by the time it reached that town, only out buildings and barns were destroyed in that neighborhood.
