Egan defeated Madison yesterday at the local ball park in what was considered a well played game. The brought a message fresh from his experiences and those who heard him were agreed that he proved to be not only one of the interesting speakers of the season but a man who far outranks many men of the platform in depth and finish of thought and statement.

The following was taken from the Jamestown, N. D., Alert: "Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Wagner, of Eldridge, N. D., are entertaining relatives at a reunion, which was planned by Mrs. Wagner and her sisters and cousins just 20 years ago, July 13. On that day they were all together at Madison, S. ## MODERN WOODMEN PICNIC TOMORROW

FIVE COUNTIES TO BE REPRESENTED AT SOCIAL GATHERING AT LAKE MADISON.

Arrangements are complete for the M. W. A. picnic to be held at Lake Madison tomorrow, and if the weather is favorable, several hundred Modern Woodmen and their families will be here from Lake, Moody, Minnehaha, Brookings and Kingsbury counties. Local Woodmen have spent several days preparing for the event, which is to be made an annual affair. Last week booster delegations were sent out to the surrounding towns urging Woodmen to attend, and they report that their invitation was enthusiastically accepted. The picnic is not exclusively for Woodmen, but the public in general is urgently invited to spend the day and witness the afternoon program.

At 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning a parade will be staged on Egan avenue which will be composed of floats prepared by the Madison camp of the M. W. A. and Royal Neighbors, and will be headed by the municipal band. Immediately following the parade the picnicers will drive to the lake for dinner.

The afternoon will be taken up with a program of field and water sports which will open at 2 o'clock. A moving picture entertainment will be held at the auditorium in the evening free to everyone. The pictures to be shown are "Who Is My Neighbor," and "The Value of Life," two films which have been produced under the M. W. A. and which deal with different phases of their work. The pictures are highly interesting and instructive.

A class of about 20 candidates will be initiated early in the evening. The degree work will be put on by a Sioux Falls team and will be held in the pavilion.

The day will close with a dance at the pavilion held under the auspices of the Woodmen, to which the public is cordially invited.

He Dances Jig on 81st Birthday

Arlington, July 24—Wm. Brown, sr., celebrated his 81st birthday last week with the help of about 40 of his relatives who gathered at his sons home and surprised him. That he is very active for his age is evident from the way in which he entertained his guests by dancing an Irish jig for them and singing old time songs. A lunch was served at which birthday cake was cut.

Rancher Hurt While Rounding Up Cattle

Rapid City, July 24—Will Beach, a young rancher near Folsom, was thrown from his saddle horse by the cinch giving away when rounding up a bunch of cattle.

So serious was his condition following the accident that he was rushed to the Methodist Deaconess hospital here and operated on at once.

By the accident Beach sustained a ruptured liver. He is still in serious condition and very little hope is held out by physicians for recovery.

Drug Nurse; Take Diamond Rings

Cherokee, July 24—Myrtle Nelson, graduate nurse, was held up by two men and robbed of two diamond rings valued at $250 and $125. She was gagged with a handkerchief, her hands tied behind her and her feet bound.

A hypodermic injection in her arm and chloroform had been used to render her unconscious. She was discovered in an alley in the business district to which she had crawled after freeing her feet, two hours after the robbery.

SAILOR HAS ENOUGH

Quits His Job Cuddling Boa Constrictors on Ship.

Walking Deck With Seasick Gibbons and Valuing Elephants and Other Products of Jungle Abjured by Seaman.

New York.—Johann Schultz, a thoroughly American citizen of German birth, quit his job as deckhand on the steamship Hansa, which recently arrived at Pier 86, North river. He said he would take his chances in a poor labor market rather than spend another day on a ship carrying eight elephants, seven baboons (man-killing, of course), twenty-five assorted snakes—boa constrictors, pythons, anacondas, hooded cobras and Senegambian ham vultures; 100 non-man-killing apes, 150 birds, including parrots, love birds and three long-legged fowl of the genus Kagus from Burma.

"I'm tired of valuing elephants," said Mr. Schultz. "I had to cuddle boa constrictors in my arms and crouch them to sleep at night, and I've had enough of it. You don't know what life on the bounding wave is until you've had to walk the deck with a seasick gibbon or calm the fears of a bull cobra. Yes, you may announce that Jack Schultz has quit the sea game, and add that any one who wants a man to take tender care of his or her geranium beds or yearns to engage a mild-mannered watchman might do worse than to look me up."

The Hansa's cargo of jungleers are consigned to Louis Ruhe, dealer in such merchandise.

According to Mr. Ruhe's representative at the pier, Louis J. Beck, the long-legged fowls of the genus Kagus are the first of their kind to arrive in America. Mr. Beck and Andrew Myers, another representative of Mr. Ruhe, say that Albert Meems, a mighty hunter, corralled the menagerie in the Burmese jungles. It took him more than a year to do it, they say.

ESKIMOS INCREASE TOO FAST

West Coast of Greenland Imperiled by Growth of Population—Causes Lively Dispute.

Copenhagen.—The growth in the number of Eskimos on the west coast of Greenland of late has made the existence of the surplus population somewhat precarious. The old plan of transporting a certain number of families to Scoresby sound, on the east coast, where the only other settlement is Angmagssalik, is now likely to be adopted, as an expedition to investigate the place may start this year, and perhaps has already started.

Although the scheme is generally approved, disagreement has arisen as to who is to put it into execution. It lies between the originator of the scheme, M. Olrik of the Royal Greenland Trade, in collaboration with the well-known arctic explorer, M. Ejnar Mikelsen, or the two young brothers Porsild, who, as sons of the director of the scientific station on Disco Island, have passed the greater part of their life in Greenland.

Sheriff's Honor System Lost Him Five Prisoners

Sheriff Seth Orndorff, of El Paso, Tex., changed his mind about the honor system after an experiment lasting four hours. Twelve prisoners without shackles were taken from the jail to work on a road, with the promise that, if they worked well without guards, they would be pardoned before their term was up. Five prisoners escaped before noon, and the experiment was called off.

Girl Has Papa Jailed So Beau Can Visit Her

Cornelius Fitzpatrick, of Hoboken, N. J., was arraigned in police court, after spending the night in a cell, on a complaint sworn out by his daughter, Marguerite. The hearing disclosed that Fitzpatrick believes all his daughter's suitors are lounge lizards, and had threatened to hurl shoes and crockery at them.

When one suitor called on his daughter, Fitzpatrick became wrathful and Marguerite summoned a policeman. After that she had a pleasant evening.

"A night in jail serves you right," the judge told Fitzpatrick.

RUNS STEERS INTO FORTUNE

New Mexico Multimillionaire Begon With Three 25 Years Ago.

Benjamin A. Pankey was touring the Southwest via freight. He got off the train and found himself penniless in a strange region. He went to work and made enough money to buy three steers.

That was more than 25 years ago. Today Pankey's fortune is estimated from $10,000,000 to $14,000,000. And he made it all from the three-steer start.

Pankey is said to be the biggest individual land owner in New Mexico. He was a state senator three years and served one term as New Mexico's lieutenant governor.

Advertising a Sale!

YOU don't leave your rig in the middle of the road and go to a fence-post to read a sale bill do you? Then don't expect the other fellow to do it.

Put an ad in this paper, then, regardless of the weather, the fellow you want to reach reads your announcements while seated at his fireside.

If he is a prospective buyer you'll have him at your side. One extra buyer often pays the entire expense of the ad, and it's a poor ad that won't pull that buyer.

An ad in this paper reaches the people you are after. Bills may be a necessity, but the ad is the thing that does the business.

Don't think of having a special sale without using advertising space in this paper.
