KOREA IS JAPAN'S PROPERTY

Haywood Case Will Reach Jury Tomorrow Noon

SHINLY VEILED THREAT

JAPAN WANTS CHINA

ese Leader Says, China Must Profit By What Has Happened to Korea, or Some Stronger Nation Will Establish Protectorate Over Her

... Korea, July 26.—The fact that the Japanese forgot the American question in their trouble with Korea, shows how light was the importance attached to it, said Viscount Kato today: "The Korean case should serve as a lesson to China to defend herself, lest some stronger nation be forced to treat her as Japan treated Korea."

Orby a Poor Last. Crockpot Derby winner, was badly injured today in a race for the Atlantic. He was the last of four.

TRYING TO HANG HAYWOOD IS BORAH'S OBJECT

Innocent Or Guilty Makes No Difference to Indicted Senator, Who Makes Up For Weakness of Evidence By His Own Bold, and Unsubstantiated Assertions

Boise, Idaho, July 26.—Three thousand persons besieged the court house this morning to hear the final summing up of Borah for the prosecution.

was there any Pinkertons mixed up in that killing. I care nothing about the Colorado mine owners, or her militia. The time will come when Colorado will awaken to the fact that there are things higher than her mines and her mine owners, and that is patriotism, and higher manhood and womanhood, but the Steunenberg assassination has nothing to do with all that. Orchard, as was his custom, started for Denver to commit that crime. This is proven by independent witnesses. Did he go then to a farming community to mine, to play cards with soldiers, or to call on old friends? No, neither did he while there perform any work, or do anything but lounge about until the murder was committed. The fact that he let Marion Moore take a letter from him to Alaska, and that Haywood wrote he was in Alaska showed how close Orchard was to these men. Borah said both sides would admit that Orchard was a rascal, but not a fool. His story that he sold the Hercules interest before the Couer d'Alene troubles, Borah held was proven by the deed filed. Borah made

U.S. SENATOR W.E. BORAH, ASSOCIATE COUNSEL for the STATE.

... eution. By order of the judge only those for whom seats could be found were permitted to enter. Borah will finish tonight. His summing is a masterly presentation of the case for the state. He is not evading any of the charges by the defense against Orchard, admitting everything and then claiming that no matter what he did in the past he is telling the truth now. Borah insisted that every witness called by the state added to the chain of circumstances linking Orchard and Haywood together.
"The crooked and devious trail of this arch-friend," he declared, "leads directly from the blood bespattered ruins of the Independence depot, and from the shattered broken gateway in Caldwell, stained with the life blood of one of Idaho's greatest men to the Denver offices of the federation, and to the very desk of Moyer and Haywood."
Mrs. Bell Steunenberg widow of the murdered governor, had a seat inside the rail for the first time, and followed Borah's argument closely. "I call your attention to the fact that the Steunenberg killing was not brought on by the mine owners, nor

... a bitter personal attack on former Attorney-General Engeley, of Colorado, declaring he was untruthful.
"I am not surprised that Colorado had hell within its borders for ten years, when a man like this can come here and preach the doctrines he did on the witness stand."
Borah declared there was no question but that the brains behind the conspiracy was Haywood, and declared he knew about it, and in support of his opinion cited a telegram sent him after the murder by Simpkins, asking about a lawyer to defend Orchard. The entire feature of Borah's argument was a demonstration of Simpkins' connection with the Steunenberg murder outside of Orchard's testimony. He also argued that by inference Haywood knew about Orchard's plans, and declared the fact that Pettibone dared not go on the stand and deny he wrote a letter to Orchard telling him the money was sent in care of Simpkins, was an admission of guilt and absolute confirmation of Orchard's story. When recess was ordered court adjourned until tonight, when Borah will conclude the case, and it will reach the jury about 11 o'clock Saturday.

TO FIND CAUSE OF DISASTER COLUMBIA BLAMED

Testimony Shows She Violated Navigation Laws, Running Full Speed in Heavy Fog—San Pedro Heard Fifteen Minutes Before the Collision.

San Francisco, July 26.—Investigation of the Columbia wreck was resumed this afternoon, additional witnesses of members of the crews of the Columbia and San Pedro have been called to give testimony, and it is expected the inquiry will be closed tonight. The testimony recorded so far does little toward establishing who is responsible for the wreck, beyond showing that some one on the Columbia is to blame for running the vessel at full speed through a thick fog that screened the coast. It is conceded the laws of navigation were violated in this respect, though no one seems to know by whose order it was done.

The first witness called was F. Peterson, lookout on the Columbia. He testified that at the time of the collision the weather was foggy and he could see only two ships lengths ahead, but he heard the whistle of the San Pedro about 15 minutes before the vessel was sighted. The San Pedro's whistle was sounded about every minute to starboard of the Columbia.

When Peterson first saw the San Pedro she was about 150 feet distant, and was coming "square on" to the Columbia. On sighting the approaching steam schooner he leaped onto the bridge where he was at the time of the collision. He believed that the Columbia floated for eight or nine minutes after she was struck before she went down. He reported to Captain Doran when he first heard the whistles.

In answer to questions he said he could not tell whether or not the Columbia was going at full speed. There was no wind and the Columbia blew her whistles regularly. After the collision Peterson said he was told by Captain Doran to arouse the passengers. He called those in the fore-castle and then started to the life-boat to which he was assigned, but found it was gone. He had no time call the people in the steerage or cabin. He ran to another boat and was there alone when he saw Captain Doran standing near and was asked to give a hand in launching the boat.

Other witnesses add nothing to the statement of Peterson, as to conditions before the collision.

STATE VERSUS NATION

Washington, D. C., July 26.—Bryan may be drawn into the North Carolina rate muddle, as advisor to Governor Glenn and the state officials, as he is well informed on the points involved. Nine years ago he represented Nebraska before the state supreme court in a similar case, but lost, the supreme court enjoining the transportation board from enforcing the rate law.

Asheville, July 26.—The Southern Railway officials are in conference here this morning, considering the ultimatum submitted by Governor Glenn.
Sanford is on his way to Washington to report his failure to have Judge Pritchard and the state authorities agree to a compromise.

RECALLS OLD CRIME.

Widow of Carey Snyder, of Forest Grove Married.
Kansas City, Mo., July 25.—The marriage of Mrs. Carey Snyder to B. S. Williams, a traveling salesman, of Detroit, on July 6th, became known here today. Mrs. Snyder has been living quietly at the home of a sister here since her return from Portland. They were married by the probate judge here.

Mrs. Snyder is well remembered in Oregon as the wife of Carey Snyder, whose bleaching bones were found not far from Hillsboro about a year after the famous Forest Grove bank robbery. He is supposed to have been murdered by associates, who killed him because he knew too much about the bank robbery, even if he were not actually a participant in the crime.

During the investigation following the discovery of the bones, Mrs. Snyder was subjected to numerous "sweating" processes by the Washington county authorities in an endeavor to extract a confession of knowledge of the crime, but she remained a sphinx to the last, and finally left the state. Her whereabouts had been almost forgotten until her second nuptials serve again to bring her into public notice.

Quail and Cats Consumptive.
Omaha, Neb., July 26.—A disease which naturalists declare to be akin to tuberculosis is prevalent among the quail and grouse in portions of Nebraska, and thousands of the birds are dying, threatening complete extinction. The ailment attacks the lungs of the "Bob Whites," resulting in congestion and ulceration. Many people believe that rosebuds eaten by the birds cause their death, but this is declared to be a mistake by ornithologists who have investigated the matter.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 26.—A plague of tuberculosis has broken out among the cats and rats at the county consumptive hospital, and scores of the animals have been killed to prevent a spread of the disease. Owing to the discovery that animals are likely to become inoculated by exposure to tuberculosis sputum, pet dogs and cats are no longer allowed at the hospital. Among the cats the disease develops rapidly, beginning with a wheezing purr and culminating in loss of flesh, fits and convulsions.

Green Bugs Work Havoc.
Des Moines, Ia., July 26.—The dreaded Kansas green bug has left its reservation in the Sunflower state, and is now on the warpath in the wheat and oat fields of Iowa and Minnesota. According to reports received here from various parts of the state, the ravages of the insect will make much of the crop so worthless that it will never be cut. Many of the fields of late grain have turned brownish in color and only stand from four to six inches in height. All the strength has been sapped and the heads will never fill out. The bugs are especially fond of late oats, and little of the late seed oats will be harvested.

Harvest Hands Needed.
Grand Forks, N. D., July 26.—North Dakota wheat farmers are now presented with the annual difficulty of securing a sufficient number of hands to harvest the crop. The prospects in most parts of the state for a standard crop are good, although not of a boom nature. The labor question as usual at this time of the year, is the principal difficulty in the way of North Dakota's prosperity. The state officials have been agitating the matter and have sought the co-operation of commercial bodies in various parts of the country.
