Russian Sheep Dog on a Jerusalem Donkey With Barnum & Bailey.

Dogs of high and low degree, all sizes, shapes and breeds play an important part in the scenic performance of Barnum & Bailey's circus which exhibits here for two performances, Thursday, Aug. 27. None of them figure on the salary list, but all of them are indispensable to the various individuals and groups, who present their performances of canine sagacity. In truth they prove the real "meal ticket" for some of their owners.

BRYAN'S ADDRESS

Indorsing its fundamental principle. The socialist bases his contention on the theory that competition is bad, and that an economic advance is to be found in monopoly. The socialist, however, wants the public to have the benefit of the monopoly and, therefore, favors government ownership and operation of all the means of production and distribution.

The Republican party has gone almost as far as the socialist party in the economic defense of the monopoly, but it permits the benefits of monopoly to be enjoyed by a comparatively few men, who have secured a dominant influence in the government. The Republican leaders have been in the habit of sneering at the socialists, while blindly indifferent to the causes that have contributed to the growth of socialism.

In my notification speech I called attention to three demands made by our party. It asks, first, that the government shall be taken out of the hands of special interests and restored to the people as a whole; it asks, second, for honesty in elections and publicity in regard to campaign funds, that the people may freely choose representatives in sympathy with them and pledged to guard their interests; it asks, third, for such modification of governmental methods as will make the senate an elective body, and place the control of the house of representatives in the hands of a majority of its members. A few days ago, in discussing the tariff question, I dwelt upon the fourth demand made by our party, namely, that taxation be just, that the revenue laws be made for the purpose of raising revenue and not for the enrichment of a few at the expense of the many, and that the tariff law be supplemented by an income tax which will more nearly equalize the government's burdens. Today I present another demand made in our party platform—the demand that the grip of the trusts be broken, that competition be restored and that the door of opportunity be opened to the business men and the toilers of the land.

It is upon the conscience that human institutions rest, and without a stirring of the conscience no great reform is possible. To a national conscience already aroused we appeal, with the pledge that a Democratic victory will mean the ringing out of industrial despotism and the ringing in of a new era in which business will be built upon its merits, and in which men will succeed, not in proportion to the coercion they may be able to practice, but in proportion to their industry, their ability and their fidelity.

George Brown, an English jester, elephants of diminutive size, and George Brown, an English jester, offers a burlesque menage act with a squad of dogs which the children all declare to be "cute, cunning ponies."

A clownless circus would be an unhappy affair indeed and many of the costumes that the Barnum & Bailey clowns offer for the inspection of the people who come to see them are worthy of special mention. They are the very last cry in theatrical and give every onlooker a chance to get away from the trite of the conventional.

Superintendents Meet Here—

The county superintendents' convention will be held in this city September 10 and 11. Nearly all the county superintendents have written to State Superintendent asking of attending the convention. The chairman expressing their intentions of attending the convention. The meetings will be held in the capital.

Disagreeable at Home—

Lots of men and women who are disagreeable with others, get "cranky" at home. Its not disposition, its the liver. If you find in yourself that you feel cross around the house, the things worry you, just buy a bottle of Ballard's Herbine and put your liver in shape. You and everybody around you will feel better for it. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by all dealers.
