WILL COST LESS TO ENTERTAIN STORK

Tax Reductions On Almost Everything That New Arrivals Must Have, It Now Appears.

FROM SAFETY PINS TO GO-CARTS THINGS ARE LOWER

Even Pure Cattle Soap Is Lowered And May Be Lowering of Tax on Condensed Milk Helps.

BY BOND P. GEDDES

(Correspondent of the United Press)

Washington, Nov. 10.—There's at least one feature of the new Democratic tariff law that is bound to make it immensely popular, if predictions of Democrats and admissions by Republicans materialize. Democrats predict and Republicans admit that it's going to cost quite a bit less than formerly to entertain that world-old visitor who seldom fails to call after Cupid has scored with his bow and arrow. Reference is had to Old Doc Stork. Even the most eloquent, exhaustive and valuable Democratic booster of the new tariff refuses to admit that the framers were looking so far ahead for vote but however that may be, race suicide is given a potential wallop by tax reductions on almost everything which the new arrival must have.

From safety pins to go-carts, the articles the new papa must buy should be cheaper for the new tariff has been greatly lowered. Even calendars, on which are recorded the wonderful doings of the baby, ought to be cheaper. Safety pins are cut 15 per cent, and $350,000 are expected to be imported next year. Pure cattle soap for the little ones bath can be brought into this country under a six per cent import tax reduction. Importations aggregating 5,000,000 pounds are looked for during the next year.

Boric acid, a very necessary article in the toilette of Sir Infant—or Lady Infant, as the case may be—may cost two cents a pound less than it has formerly. Castor oil, another real necessity is reduced twenty-two cents a gallon on the former import tax, and while the retail price will not be greatly lowered, there ought to be enough reduction to help some.

Although the law takes a tax of two cents a gallon off of fresh condensed milk, there is only a slight chance that this lowering of import duty will be felt by American fathers and mothers. Still, since to import the stuff may bring down the price of American manufacturers to retailers, there might be a very slight reduction in retail price at that. Even talcum powder is reduced five per cent in the new law. Peppermint oil, frequently used to stop colic, ought to be some cheaper, following a slice off the import on that homely remedy, and the tax on mustard—the kind you make plasters with—has been lowered enough to permit retail reduction. Even sewing machines for those who like to make the baby clothes can come duty free. Competition by German, English and Belgian machines is expected to reduce the price on sewing machines considerably. Duties on everything that goes into the making of go-carts and perambulators, also have been reduced low enough to make probable noticeable reductions in retail prices on these necessities.

METHODS OF GETTING RID OF BUG SHOWN

Brimstone Is an Inexpensive Remedy of Getting Rid of Pest, According to Experts.

CIMEX LECTULARIUS IS SCIENTIFIC NAME FOR IT

"Wall-Louse" Is Name Applied to It by English, and Bostonese Call It "Chintze."

(UNITED PRESS LEARNED WIRE.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—A pest that is dreaded by all housewives, but whose presence is not necessarily an indication of carelessness, is the Cimex lectularius. This insect is called by many names in different localities. An old English name is "wall-lice." In Boston these parasites are called the "chintzes" or "chintzes." In Baltimore one bears them called "mahogany flat," and in New York they are styled "red coats." "Cimex" is a name given to the bug by the Romans who were well acquainted with it; "lectularius" refers to its habits, being a derivative of "lectus" meaning "bed" or "couch."

The Cimex lectularius is not likely to be very active in winter in a cold room, and ordinarily hibernates in its place of concealment, but in warm rooms it may continue its activities the year around.

It is an animal that displays a certain degree of wariness and intelligence from its long association with man. Like nearly all insects parasitic on animals, having had slight necessity for extensive locomotion, it has, after many ages, lost its wings. The absence of the wings is a most fortunate circumstance, since otherwise there would be no safety from this pest, even for the most careful and thorough housekeeper.

Odor Betrays It.

Another characteristic feature of this insect is the very distinct odor which it exhales, an odor characteristic of many plant insects as well. The possession of this odor, disagreeable as it is, is also a fortunate circumstance, as it is of considerable assistance in detecting the presence of its owner. This characteristic odor is supposed to have been originally the means of protection against birds that feed on insects, but it has long lost this special value for the Cimex lectularius. The natural enemies that might be kept away by the odor are already kept away by the conditions under which the "Cimex" lives, and the roach and house ant, which sometimes feed on these vermin, are not evidently deterred by this characteristic.

The "Cimex," though normally feeding on human blood, may subsist on much simpler food. No other explanation would seem to account for the fact that houses long unoccupied still are infested with this pest. The insect, however, is quite capable of leaving any quarters where it is unable to thrive, and will often migrate to an adjoining house if the residents leave its present habitation vacant. It displays such apparent intelligence in using every means of escape, as windows, walls, paper pipes and gutters, that it may be the misfortune of any housewife to have her premises invaded, despite the best of care. The insect also displays a surprising facility for concealment, and will abandon beds before daylight and go to distant quarters for protection far beyond the reach of the most diligent search.

Brimstone Remedy.

From its habits of concealment this pest is usually beyond reach of powders and the ordinary insect powders such as pyrethrum are of practically no value. The eradication of the insect is comparatively easy from iron and brass bedsteads, but wooden bedsteads offer a much more difficult problem. Very liberal applications of benzine or kerosene, or any petroleum oil, is the most practical way to meet this difficulty. This must be introduced into all crevices with small brushes or with feathers, or by injecting with small syringes. Corrosive sublimate is also of value, and oil of turpentine may be used in the same way. The liberal use of boiling hot water, wherever it

HOW TO SAVE YOUR EYES

TRY THIS FREE PRESCRIPTION.

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyeglasses or spectacles? Thousands of people wear these "windows" who might easily dispense with them. You may be one of these and it is your duty to save your eyes before it is too late. The eyes are neglected more than any other organ of the entire body. After you finish your day's work you sit down and rest your muscles, but how about your eyes? Do you rest them? You know you do not. You read or do something else that keeps your eyes busy; you work your eyes until you go to bed. That is why so many have strained eyes and finally other eye troubles that threaten partial or total blindness. Eyeglasses are merely crutches; they never cure. This free prescription which has benefited the eyes of so many may work equal wonders for you. Use it a short time. Would you like your eye troubles to disappear as if by magic? Try this prescription: Go to the nearest wide-awake drug store and get a bottle of Opton tablets; fill a two-ounce bottle with water, drop in one tablet and allow it to thoroughly dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. Just note how quickly your eyes clear up and how soon the inflammation will disappear. Don't be afraid to use it; it is absolutely harmless. Many who are now blind might have saved their eyes had they started to care for them in time. This is a simple treatment but marvelously effective in multitudes of cases. Now that you have been warned don't delay a day, but do what you can to save your eyes and you will thank us as long as you live for publishing this prescription.

may be employed without danger to furniture, etc., is also an effectual method of destroying both eggs and active adults.

Various Remedies for Sale

Various remedies and mixtures for

"Princess" in "The Princess of Tonight," which comes to the Grand tonight.

This pest are for sale, most of them containing one or another of the ingredients mentioned, and these are frequently of value. A daily inspection of beds and bedding and all crevices and locations about the premises is the best method to use. A vigorous campaign should, in the course of a week or so at the outside, result in the extermination of this very obnoxious and embarrassing pest.

In the case of rooms containing books or where liquid applications are inadvisable, a thorough fumigation with brimstone is an effective means of destruction. The method is as follows:

Place in the center of the room a dish containing about 4 ounces of brimstone, within a larger vessel, so that the possible overflow of the burning mass may not injure the carpet as set fire to the floor. After removing from the room all such metallic surfaces as might be affected by the fumes, close every aperture, even the keyholes, and set fire to the brimstone. When four or five hours have elapsed, the room may be entered and the windows opened for a thorough airing.

DRAMATIC NEWS

8:14 EIG SHOW COMES TONIGHT

Beautifully and extravagantly mounted is "The Prince of Tonight," the gorgeous musical fantasy coming to the Grand Opera House tonight.

A haughty heiress treats a college youth very cruelly. An old, old gardener, by the spell of a century plant, turns the youth into a prince for one night. The prince has everything but a heart. The cruel maiden falls in love with him, and he spurs her. When the moon sets he is about to die, but she saves his life with a kiss; and the prince and his princess live happily ever after, of course. There are gowns of exquisite make and colors for the beauty chorus. Money has flowed like water to mount this show and there is no "made" sparkle in it. Every gleam is genuine. As a production "The Prince of Tonight" wins.

"STOP THIEF"

One of the best crook plays (and the light fingered fraternity are some popular these days) presented since the vogue for stage rogues came in fashion, is "Stop Thief," the new farce written by Carlyle Moore and presented by Cohen & Harris, will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, November 17.

"Stop Thief" doesn't shatter stage ethics in its presentation, neither does it set up any new dramatic cannons, but it makes an audience laugh for two hours and a half as no audience ever laughed before, therefore, it is a great big popular success.

Two kleptomaniacs, a real crook and a wedding, are responsible for all the fun in "Stop Thief." One of the kleptomaniacs is a millionaire, the other his prospective son-in-law. The bride-
